PUBLIC URGED TO PUSH SEWER PROGRAM

Fund's First Report Booms Outlook

Plant Workers Giving Better Than $5 Each

90 Percent Of All Contacted So Far Have Contributed

Even prior to its all-out stretch scheduled for next week, the first Community Fund Drive in the history of Pickaway County had jumped off today to a highly impressive start.

Enthusiasm behind the drive, which represents five agencies, surged upward again on the basis of the first report made by Gail Wolfe, captain of the drive's Industry Solicitation group. He announced that approximately 90 percent of the number of persons contacted have contributed—at an average above $5 per person.

Cash contributions and pledges listed by Wolfe amounted to $2,600.

The amount was all the more impressive when Wolfe explained it does not include any industrial corporate donations. All of it represents contributions by individual industrial workers.

THE Pickaway County Community Fund drive, led this year by Dr. G. D. Phillips, will share its money among the following:

Pickaway County Red Cross, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and Pickaway County Youth Canteen.

Since several of the largest fund-raising agencies have so far declined invitations to join the Fund, its first campaign this Fall is being watched with particular interest. The drive will reach full mometum the first two weeks of October.

SIX CALIFORNIANS, including five members of one family, were killed and four injured in a spectacular night crash of five cars on the San Bernardino freeway. Police said Victor L. DeCasaus, 32, later booked on suspicion of manslaughter, sideswiped another car, causing it to leap the center strip and collide with three westbound cars. Wreckage of two autos is shown.

Bill Plum To Quit Deputy Sheriff Job

Resignation of Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff William L. Plum, effective next Wednesday, was announced today.

Plum, 24, was sworn in as deputy less than five months ago. He succeeded Carl K. (Cottie) Radcliff, a veteran law enforcement officer since 1934.

In a letter to Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, Plum wrote:

"I am unable to continue to work for you because of my health." He later explained, "the long hours required of deputies here have worn me down." Carl Radcliff gave similar reasons for his resignation when he quit his deputy post to take a job with a local construction firm.

DEPUTIES in the sheriff's department work varying shifts six days a week. One man works 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., another 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and the third, noon to midnight. The shifts are rotated each week.

However, Sheriff Radcliff pointed out they often work many hours past their quitting time, without overtime pay or compensating time-off. In addition, they are subject to call at any hour of the day or night.

Plum recalled numerous instances in which he hardly had time to prepare for bed at night before being called out again for emergencies. And he told how the other deputies had to undergo the same routine.

Plum said he planned to return to farm work in the Ashville area. He added:

"It would take me several years as a deputy to earn what I could make in one year of farming."

(Pickaway County deputies earn $275 a month, with no money provided for overtime, according to the sheriff.)

Plum's letter to the sheriff in part follows:

Legal Rulings Given On New Ohio JP Setup

Ancient 'Fee System' Due To End, But Law Quirks Are Explained

COLUMBUS (AP)—A new law taking justices of the peace off the "fee system" today, does not require county commissioners to pay them uniform salaries.

That provision of the law enacted by the last Legislature was set forth in an opinion today by Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill.

The ruling also answered a number of other questions raised by county officials about the law because of numerous last - minute amendments approved by the 101st General Assembly.

O'Neill's opinion also ruled that:

1. Justices of the peace may receive both salary and fees between Sept. 30, effective date of the new act, and Jan. 1, the deadline set by the Legislature for the end of the fee system.

2. County commissioners may not change salaries during a justice's term.

3. EXISTING offices of justice of the peace are not abolished and justices will be elected as usual next Nov. 8.

4. A special justice of the peace commission created under the new law lacks authority to establish "justice districts" until next Jan. 1. The special commission in each county will be composed of the presiding judge of common pleas court, the probate judge and the president of the board of county commissioners.

5. The new law makes no change in the compensation of constables.

In another opinion, O'Neill rul-

Egyptian-Israeli Withdrawal Delayed

JERUSALEM (AP) — The deadline for mutual withdrawal of Israeli and Egyptian military forces from the demilitarized border area near Nizana-El Auja has been postponed by U. N. headquarters until Sunday.

A U. N. spokesman said today this third postponement followed an exchange of letters between Israel's Foreign Ministry director, Gen. Walter Eytan, and Gen. E. L. M. Burns, U. N. truce chief.

The letters dealt with interpretation of terms of the evacuation, an Israeli spokesman said.

U.S. Envoy Talks With Egyptians

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Asst. Secretary of State George Allen arrived today for urgent consultations on Egypt's plan to buy arms from the Soviet bloc.

"I have come to understand Egyptian policy and to clarify American policy," Allen said in arrival from Washington.

Allen, assistant for Middle Eastern affairs to Secretary of State Dulles, has the evident task of trying to persuade Egypt not to import such a volume and variety of arms from Communist Czechoslovakia that it would upset the power balance between the Arab states and Israel.

Typhoon Roars Into Sea Japan

TOKYO (AP) — A big typhoon roared up the Sea of Japan today, a little spent after wrecking the southern island of Kyushu but still a serious threat.

Police said the storm left 20 dead, 10 missing, 105 injured and 120 fishing craft lost in the churning seas. A record rice crop was seriously damaged.

Mountainous Kyushu took some of the wildness from the typhoon, which had blasted Iwo Jima earlier with 172 mph winds. But the threat of floods grew after rains ranging up to 16 inches hit Kyushu.

State's Safety Districts Merged

COLUMBUS (AP)—Jesse T. Smith of Cleveland, general chairman of the Governor's Traffic Safety Committee, today announced consolidation of the organization's nine districts into three regions.

D. C. Anderson of Xenia became chairman of the Southwest Region. Sheriff R. E. Stockdale of Portage County took over chairmanship of the Northeast Region. Both men are members of the executive committee of the governor's statewide safety group. Smith said a chairman for the new Central Region will be named soon.

College Chief Lauds Maleless World

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—The maleless academic world of Goucher College leaves its students "happily free" of such distractions as football and "hand-holding in the library" says president Otto F. Kraushaar.

Krauschaar, welcoming the college's 641 students back to school yesterday, called the girls to pursuit of the "serious aim of the institution."

Sen. Johnson Does OK After Heart Attack

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — If the way a man looks, acts and talks means anything, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson has hit a steady stride on the comeback trail to good health.

Stricken in July with the same sort of heart attack that hit President Eisenhower, the Senate majority leader has been following a strict recovery routine of moderate work and relaxation since he returned to his ranch home on the sleepy Pedernales River.

He has just had a physical checkup in a Temple, Tex., hospital. Doctors reported he is making good progress. He faces two more thorough examinations before the medical men will be willing to give him a ticket back to Congress, but he says he'll make it.

He avoids strenious exercises but by a rigid diet shared by Mrs. Johnson, who gives no appearance of needing it, the senator has trimmed his weight to 175 from 220. He stays outdoors much of the time. His face is lean and tanned, his eyes sharp.

Johnson is up early every morning but takes a long afternoon rest, including a nap. Then he works late—sometimes until 11:30 p. m.—and says he sleeps extraordinarily well.

Evidence Grows President To Shun Reelection

Sherman Adam's Move Curbs Talk Of Cutting Eisenhower's Duties

DENVER (AP) — The direction of government shifted to Denver today as President Eisenhower continued to improve from his heart attack and his chief deputy flew here from Washington.

At the same time, one of his principal physicians added to the growing evidence Eisenhower will retire at the end of his present term by saying if he were the President he "wouldn't want to run again."

Dr. Paul Dudley White, asked whether it would be possible for the President to run again, told a national television audience:

"Many things are possible that may not be available. It is up to him to make the decision. He may or may not have complete recovery. If I were in his shoes I wouldn't want to run again, having seen the strain."

In their morning medical bulletin, Eisenhower's doctors at Denver's Fitzsimons Army Hospital reported today he enjoyed "an excellent night," their first use of that word since his heart attack last Saturday. Previously they have termed his nights "comfortable" or "very comfortable."

FOR THE FIRST time also, the medical men said the President spent the night outside an oxygen tent, sleeping "almost continuously from 9 p. m. to 6:30 a. m." Heretofore he has been spending most of the day outside the oxygen tent but returning to it at night.

Dr. White is the Boston heart specialist who attended Eisenhower in Denver and now receives twice daily telephone reports in Boston on his condition from the President's medical staff.

The decision of Sherman Adams, called "The Boss" by the President, to join the Denver White House staff spelled the end of any possible plans to delegate any of Eisenhower's authority during his illness.

Eisenhower's personal friends said the arrival of Adams will dispel any doubt that the reins of government will be kept firmly in hand until the President is able to assume active direction.

There are also those who speculate that the President will not take kindly, once he has been given a fill-in on Washington maneuvers of the last few days, the quickness with which some people in his administration explored ways for delegating presidential authority to others.

"The Boss," a 56-year-old, white haired one-time lumberjack, has become one of the most influential men in the nation.

With Eisenhower hospitalized, Adams' behind-the-scenes role becomes more important than ever. He will decide which few of the major and minor problems that develop are important enough to be taken up with the recuperating

Bums Chalk Win Over Yanks, 8-3

BROOKLYN (AP)—There was joy aplenty in Flatbush today as the Faithful saw their Brooklyn Dodgers defeat the mighty New York Yankees 8-3 in the third game of the 1955 World Series. The Yanks now lead the series, two games to one.

The Dodgers drew first blood when Catcher Roy Campanella chalked a home run with a mate aboard in the first inning. The Yankees, leading the series 2-0, knotted the count in the top of the second. But in the bottom of the second, the Dodgers went ahead 4-2 on two runs forced in by the yankee pitcher.

In the fourth, the Dodgers added two more while the Yankees were able to tally one in the seventh.

But the Brooklyn crew came back in the seventh to add two more runs.

There was a threat of scattered showers as the teams took the field with righthander Bob Turley of the Yankees trying to make it three straight against Brooklyn's lefthanded Johnny Podres.

The schedule:

Third and fourth games at Ebbets Field today and Saturday. Fifth game (if necessary) at Ebbets Field Sunday. Sixth and seventh games (if necessary) at Yankee Stadium, Monday and Tuesday.

Manager Walter Alston said Saturday's Brooklyn pitcher would be Carl Erskine (11-8), the clever righthander who struck out 14 Yanks in the third game in 1953 to set a series record. Erskine has been bothered by arm trouble or he would have started one of the earlier games.

For Saturday, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel nominated Don Larsen (9-2), another righthander.

Today's play by play:

St. Marys Bread Sells Penny Loaf

ST. MARYS (AP)—A bread price war between two supermarkets reached a climax here today. The staff of life was selling for a penny a loaf.

The rock-bottom price for a 20-ounce loaf of white bread, which normally retails at 21 cents was reached after four weeks of alternate price slashing to uphold each store's boast: "We will not be undersold." There was a 10-loaf limit per customer.

The price was four cents a loaf last week, three cents until today. Other types of bread were selling at regular prices. Many local residents report their home freezers are so full of bread they fear they won't have room for the winter's meat.

Postal Clerk Aids In Reviving Baby

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A postal clerk yesterday pumped life back into an apparently dead baby girl on the counter of a grocery.

Mrs. Baltazar Franco rushed into the small neighborhood store carrying the limp and blue body of her 7-month-old daughter Sylvia, explaining the baby had suffocated under blankets and pillows.

Chester J. Dyczkowski, 32, who happened to be in the grocery, laid the baby on the counter next to the cash register and applied artificial respiration. The baby revived and was taken to a hospital for a checkup. The hospital record showed, "baby fine; left with mother."

Patrolman Nabs Loan Office Thief

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man accused of robbing a loan office was captured by a patrolman yesterday after a chase up two flights of stairs in a downtown building.

Police identified the prisoner as William Earl McCord, 29, of Toledo. He was taken to central police station for questioning.

The patrolman, Robert Tadsen, spotted McCord on a street after a description had been broadcast of a robber who had held up the Pacific Finance Co., a few minutes before and escaped with $85. He said McCord, offering no resistance, turned over his pistol and the cash he carried.

North-South Pike Said Certainty

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati civic leaders received another assurance last night from Gov. Frank J. Lausche that a Cincinnati to Conneaut turnpike "definitely will become a reality."

The governor, speaking at a meeting sponsored by the Citizens Development Committee, said he believed construction of the toll road would be started by the spring of 1957.

He urged local leaders to support state officials in the project saying, "some hazards will be thrown into the pathway of the North-South Turnpike."

Mader Accuses Council Of Stall On Vital Needs

Utilities Board Head Turns Spotlight On Pending Ordinance

Chairman John F. Mader of the Circleville Board of Public Utilities today accused city council of neglecting urgent sewer and water problems facing the municipality. He asked the public to force action by the lawmakers.

Though restrained in tone, a statement issued by the board chairman reflected the growing pressure that surrounds one of the city's most important issues. It has long been apparent that increased rates—or some new form of revenue—will be necessary to finance serious needs of Circleville's water supply and sewage systems. But council has been reluctant to take the important steps required.

Currently, a far-reaching ordinance that would revise the sewer rate setup is coming up for third and final reading in council's meeting next Tuesday night.

Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist said it was prepared at the suggestion of the lawmakers in order to get a major sewer improvement program under way. However, the pending measure has been traveling a quiet course through its first two readings and apparently is doomed to defeat, or some form of sidetrack, in the vote expected Tuesday.

LEIST HAS repeatedly reminded council that the city will have to modernize its water suppiy and sewage services. Like Mader, he has stressed the point that continued delay by council will only add to the eventual cost of work which cannot be avoided.

Mader's statement appeared to be the first move in a policy under which the city utilities officials will refuse to accept responsibility for difficulties traced to council's lack of action.

Councilman John Robinson is considered one of the top oppon-

All Cards On Table, Face Up

All Public Business Must Be Conducted In Public Now

COLUMBUS (AP)—No state or local government agency in Ohio may take any formal action at a meeting from which the public is barred. That's the law, effective today.

The law has applied to state agencies for two years. It was amended by the 1955 Legislature to apply local government groups.

Aim of the amendments is to insure that "public business is truly the public's business." That was the statement of Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain) when he presented them to the Senate.

The new law says "all meetings of any board, commission, agency or authority of any county, township, municipal corporation, school district or other political subdivision are declared to be public meetings open to the public at all times."

Executive sessions or private conferences are not prohibited, but the law provides: "No resolution, rule, regulation or formal action of any kind shall be adopted at any executive session."

Also effective today are laws to:

Require non-church and non-fraternal groups and individuals wishing to solicit charity funds to register and make detailed reports of the distribution of proceeds. It is designed to end "charity rackets."

Make permanent certain wartime relaxations in the Ohio law relative to employment of women and minors. The relaxations had been renewed temporarily every two years since the end of World War II.

Put Ohio justices of the peace on salary and set up justice commissions in each county to determine the number of JPs to be elected. The fee system under which magistrates have operated ends Jan. 1. Salaries are to be set by county commissioners.

Require two license tags on each motor vehicles, restoring the requirement dropped during the Korean conflict.

End truck "tailgating" by requiring a distance of at least 300 feet between trucks and other slow-moving vehicles.

Give the superintendent of insurance more power in dealing with unfair practices, particularly in the health and accident insurance field.

Legal Rulings Given On New Ohio JP Setup

Ancient 'Fee System' Due To End, But Law Quirks Are Explained

COLUMBUS (AP)—A new law taking justices of the peace off the "fee system" today, does not require county commissioners to pay them uniform salaries.

That provision of the law enacted by the last Legislature was set forth in an opinion today by Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill.

The ruling also answered a number of other questions raised by county officials about the law because of numerous last - minute amendments approved by the 101st General Assembly.

O'Neill's opinion also ruled that:

1. Justices of the peace may receive both salary and fees between Sept. 30, effective date of the new act, and Jan. 1, the deadline set by the Legislature for the end of the fee system.

2. County commissioners may not change salaries during a justice's term.

3. EXISTING offices of justice of the peace are not abolished and justices will be elected as usual next Nov. 8.

4. A special justice of the peace commission created under the new law lacks authority to establish "justice districts" until next Jan. 1. The special commission in each county will be composed of the presiding judge of common pleas court, the probate judge and the president of the board of county commissioners.

Evidence Grows President To Shun Reelection

Sherman Adam's Move Curbs Talk Of Cutting Eisenhower's Duties

DENVER (AP) — The direction of government shifted to Denver today as President Eisenhower continued to improve from his heart attack and his chief deputy flew here from Washington.

At the same time, one of his principal physicians added to the growing evidence Eisenhower will retire at the end of his present term by saying if he were the President he "wouldn't want to run again."

Dr. Paul Dudley White, asked whether it would be possible for the President to run again, told a national television audience:

"Many things are possible that may not be available. It is up to him to make the decision. He may or may not have complete recovery. If I were in his shoes I wouldn't want to run again, having seen the strain."

In their morning medical bulletin, Eisenhower's doctors at Denver's Fitzsimons Army Hospital reported today he enjoyed "an excellent night," their first use of that word since his heart attack last Saturday. Previously they have termed his nights "comfortable" or "very comfortable."

FOR THE FIRST time also, the medical men said the President spent the night outside an oxygen tent, sleeping "almost continuously from 9 p. m. to 6:30 a. m." Heretofore he has been spending most of the day outside the oxygen tent but returning to it at night.

Dr. White is the Boston heart specialist who attended Eisenhower in Denver and now receives twice daily telephone reports in Boston on his condition from the President's medical staff.

The decision of Sherman Adams, called "The Boss" by the President, to join the Denver White House staff spelled the end of any possible plans to delegate any of Eisenhower's authority during his illness.

Eisenhower's personal friends said the arrival of Adams will dispel any doubt that the reins of government will be kept firmly in hand until the President is able to assume active direction.

There are also those who speculate that the President will not take kindly, once he has been given a fill-in on Washington maneuvers of the last few days, the quickness with which some people in his administration explored ways for delegating presidential authority to others.

"The Boss," a 56-year-old, white haired one-time lumberjack, has become one of the most influential men in the nation.

With Eisenhower hospitalized, Adams' behind-the-scenes role becomes more important than ever. He will decide which few of the major and minor problems that develop are important enough to be taken up with the recuperating

Bums Chalk Win Over Yanks, 8-3

BROOKLYN (AP)—There was joy aplenty in Flatbush today as the Faithful saw their Brooklyn Dodgers defeat the mighty New York Yankees 8-3 in the third game of the 1955 World Series. The Yanks now lead the series, two games to one.

The Dodgers drew first blood when Catcher Roy Campanella chalked a home run with a mate aboard in the first inning. The Yankees, leading the series 2-0, knotted the count in the top of the second. But in the bottom of the second, the Dodgers went ahead 4-2 on two runs forced in by the yankee pitcher.

In the fourth, the Dodgers added two more while the Yankees were able to tally one in the seventh.

But the Brooklyn crew came back in the seventh to add two more runs.

There was a threat of scattered showers as the teams took the field with righthander Bob Turley of the Yankees trying to make it three straight against Brooklyn's lefthanded Johnny Podres.

The schedule:

Third and fourth games at Ebbets Field today and Saturday. Fifth game (if necessary) at Ebbets Field Sunday. Sixth and seventh games (if necessary) at Yankee Stadium, Monday and Tuesday.

Manager Walter Alston said Saturday's Brooklyn pitcher would be Carl Erskine (11-8), the clever righthander who struck out 14 Yanks in the third game in 1953 to set a series record. Erskine has been bothered by arm trouble or he would have started one of the earlier games.

For Saturday, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel nominated Don Larsen (9-2), another righthander.

St. Marys Bread Sells Penny Loaf

ST. MARYS (AP)—A bread price war between two supermarkets reached a climax here today. The staff of life was selling for a penny a loaf.

The rock-bottom price for a 20-ounce loaf of white bread, which normally retails at 21 cents was reached after four weeks of alternate price slashing to uphold each store's boast: "We will not be undersold." There was a 10-loaf limit per customer.

The price was four cents a loaf last week, three cents until today. Other types of bread were selling at regular prices. Many local residents report their home freezers are so full of bread they fear they won't have room for the winter's meat.

Postal Clerk Aids In Reviving Baby

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A postal clerk yesterday pumped life back into an apparently dead baby girl on the counter of a grocery.

Mrs. Baltazar Franco rushed into the small neighborhood store carrying the limp and blue body of her 7-month-old daughter Sylvia, explaining the baby had suffocated under blankets and pillows.

Chester J. Dyczkowski, 32, who happened to be in the grocery, laid the baby on the counter next to the cash register and applied artificial respiration. The baby revived and was taken to a hospital for a checkup. The hospital record showed, "baby fine; left with mother."

Patrolman Nabs Loan Office Thief

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man accused of robbing a loan office was captured by a patrolman yesterday after a chase up two flights of stairs in a downtown building.

Police identified the prisoner as William Earl McCord, 29, of Toledo. He was taken to central police station for questioning.

The patrolman, Robert Tadsen, spotted McCord on a street after a description had been broadcast of a robber who had held up the Pacific Finance Co., a few minutes before and escaped with $85. He said McCord, offering no resistance, turned over his pistol and the cash he carried.

North-South Pike Said Certainty

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati civic leaders received another assurance last night from Gov. Frank J. Lausche that a Cincinnati to Conneaut turnpike "definitely will become a reality."

The governor, speaking at a meeting sponsored by the Citizens Development Committee, said he believed construction of the toll road would be started by the spring of 1957.

He urged local leaders to support state officials in the project saying, "some hazards will be thrown into the pathway of the North-South Turnpike."

Mader Accuses Council Of Stall On Vital Needs

Utilities Board Head Turns Spotlight On Pending Ordinance

Chairman John F. Mader of the Circleville Board of Public Utilities today accused city council of neglecting urgent sewer and water problems facing the municipality. He asked the public to force action by the lawmakers.

Though restrained in tone, a statement issued by the board chairman reflected the growing pressure that surrounds one of the city's most important issues. It has long been apparent that increased rates—or some new form of revenue—will be necessary to finance serious needs of Circleville's water supply and sewage systems. But council has been reluctant to take the important steps required.

Currently, a far-reaching ordinance that would revise the sewer rate setup is coming up for third and final reading in council's meeting next Tuesday night.

Public Utilities Manager Ervin Leist said it was prepared at the suggestion of the lawmakers in order to get a major sewer improvement program under way. However, the pending measure has been traveling a quiet course through its first two readings and apparently is doomed to defeat, or some form of sidetrack, in the vote expected Tuesday.

LEIST HAS repeatedly reminded council that the city will have to modernize its water supply and sewage services. Like Mader, he has stressed the point that continued delay by council will only add to the eventual cost of work which cannot be avoided.

Mader's statement appeared to be the first move in a policy under which the city utilities officials will refuse to accept responsibility for difficulties traced to council's lack of action.

Councilman John Robinson is considered one of the top oppon-

The judge said animals at the kennels are better off in three respects—they have better food, more privacy and also enjoy exercising privileges.

All Cards On Table, Face Up

All Public Business Must Be Conducted In Public Now

COLUMBUS (AP)—No state or local government agency in Ohio may take any formal action at a meeting from which the public is barred. That's the law, effective today.

The law has applied to state agencies for two years. It was amended by the 1955 Legislature to apply local government groups.

Aim of the amendments is to insure that "public business is truly the public's business." That was the statement of Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain) when he presented them to the Senate.

The new law says "all meetings of any board, commission, agency or authority of any county, township, municipal corporation, school district or other political subdivision are declared to be public meetings open to the public at all times."

Executive sessions or private conferences are not prohibited, but the law provides: "No resolution, rule, regulation or formal action of any kind shall be adopted at any executive session."

Also effective today are laws to:

Require non-church and non-fraternal groups and individuals wishing to solicit charity funds to register and make detailed reports of the distribution of proceeds. It is designed to end "charity rackets."

Make permanent certain wartime relaxations in the Ohio law relative to employment of women and minors. The relaxations had been renewed temporarily every two years since the end of World War II.

Put Ohio justices of the peace on salary and set up justice commissions in each county to determine the number of JPs to be elected. The fee system under which magistrates have operated ends Jan. 1. Salaries are to be set by county commissioners.

Require two license tags on each motor vehicles, restoring the requirement dropped during the Korean conflict.

End truck "tailgating" by requiring a distance of at least 300 feet between trucks and other slow-moving vehicles.

Give the superintendent of insurance more power in dealing with unfair practices, particularly in the health and accident insurance field.

health. I guess I cannot get used to this work but do like it very much.

"I would rather work for you than any other person that I know. You have been like a father to me for a long time.

"I hate to turn you down now, but I cannot stand the (hours involved in this) work. I did not know that when I asked for the job.

"If at anytime I can do anything for you, please let me know....."

Sheriff Radcliff said he had no immediate plans for a replacement for Plum. He added that Plum's resignation "hit me like a bombshell", saying he thinks highly of Plum and that he had done "a wonderful job in the short time he has been with the department."

(SINCE 1952, Plum had been a special deputy and did part-time voluntary work for the sheriff.)

The sheriff said he has been trying "to ease the situation" of his deputies. He said there is too much work for only three full-time deputies but that there apparently is no money to hire additional help or increase his deputies' salaries.

Plum's resignation leaves deputies Carl White and Dwight Radcliff on full-time duty (both earn $275 a month), Bill Snyder (who was hired as a night jailer at $215 a month) and Mrs. Helen Strous (who has charge of the office paper work and who earns $200 a month.)

2,500 Cincinnati Workers Strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — About 2,500 employes of the Electric Auto Lite Co.'s lamp division plant in nearby Evendale are on strike.

The Lampworkers Collective Bargaining Assn., an independent union, called the strike. It also took off the job 700 AFL Metal Polishers' Union workers, who refused to cross picket lines.

Thomas Raley, vice president of the striking union, said the strike was called because "the company just wasn't showing good faith" in new contract negotiations.

City Medical Clinic Results Reported

The annual medical clinic for the city's first grade pupils has been completed. And as a result, medical and dental care has been recommended for many of the boys and girls.

The clinic was held at the Franklin St. school.

Approximately 167 students were examined by the staff, which included eight doctors, three optometrists, two dentists and two laboratory technicians in addition to nearly 42 other workers.

A large number of students were found to be in need of dental care. Some were told they would need their tonsils removed. In all cases where care was indicated, slips were sent out and they are to be returned after the treatment is completed.

The clinic, which is held annually, is under the sponsorship of the health council of the Circleville Parent-Teachers Association.

Years Enhance Great History Of Logan Elm

Sunday's Program Will Be Indoors In Case Of Rain

The annual Logan Elm celebration, scheduled for 2 p. m. Sunday in Logan Elm Park, south of Circleville, was first observed under the branches of the great tree in 1912.

It was held under the sponsorship of the Ohio History Day Association, organized in that year, and the festivity has been sponsored by the association ever since.

Under this tree, Indian Chief Logan is said to have delivered his impasioned oration to a messenger of Lord Dunmore's frontier army 181 years ago. Since then, the tree has been memorialized by pioneers and succeeding generations as "The Logan Elm."

The land where the tree grows first came into the hands of Major John Boggs in 1798. Major Boggs learned of the historical facts about the land and tree from his father, who was familiar with the Lord Dunmore frontier war and who knew many of the men who fought in it.

THE LAND remained in the Boggs family until 1888 when it was sold to Mrs. Wallace of Chillicothe. It later was sold to Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, who sold the land to the State of Ohio around 1911.

Citizens of Pickaway and Ross Counties provided funds for the granite and bronze monument, where a cameo of the Logan Elm and a profile of Logan as well as his speech, is embossed.

Although no one seem to know for sure, guesses on the age of the great elm have arranged from 500 to 1,000 years old. It is said to be "Ohio's oldest living thing" and some go so far as to say it is the oldest living thing east of the Mississippi River.

Sunday's program will be presented by the pupils of the Jackson Twp. Centralized School and Harford Renick, of Pickaway County, will be the featured speaker.

Logan Elm Park is located one mile east of U. S. Rt. 23, seven miles south of Circleville. In case or rain, the event will be presented in the Pickaway Township School Auditorium.

Williamsport Man Falls From Roof

A Williamsport Route 2 man who fell from a roof while painting it Thursday is in "fair" condition in Berger Hospital.

George B. Bochard, 68, suffered head injuries, lacerations of the forehead, right and left arms and a back injury, according to a report by Deputy Sheriff Bill Plum. Bochard fell approximately 20 feet to a cement sidewalk, the deputy said.

Deputy Plum said he happened to be in the area by chance when a resident told him of the accident. The deputy said it took him only about two minutes to get to the scene.

Bochard was painting the roof of his house, located approximately two miles south of Williamsport on the Williamsport - Chillicothe Rd., when he apparently slipped and fell.

Deputies Find 3 Stolen Cars In Past Week

Sheriff's deputies have hit a streak of recovering stolen cars. Three of them have been found by deputies within the past week.

Deputy Carl White, in recovering a car at DuPont Rd. and Route 23 south of here, also apprehended two runaways from Cleveland. The youths, 14 and 15, were found near the car.

Investigation showed that the boys had stolen three cars in their flight from Cleveland, according to Deputy White. They have been turned over to Columbus police to face a stolen car charge there.

Earlier in the week, Deputy White recovered a car stolen from Delaware. He discovered the car on Walnut St. here.

DEPUTY BILL PLUM discovered a stolen car Thursday on Route 3—62. The location is between Harrisburg and Derby.

Deputy Plum also reported he had apprehended four suspects, two men and two women, in connection with a gas and battery stealing gang. He said the quartet, all from the Circleville area, allegedly admitted several thefts, not only in Pickaway County but also in surrounding areas.

Youth Canteen Now Recognized As Vital Part Of Community Life

Pickaway County Youth Canteen, one of five agencies that will share in money raised by the Community Fund, today outlined the policy that has made it an important part of daily life for the community.

Success of the canteen, located in rooms above the First National Bank, has attracted commendations from over a wide section of the state. Many organizations of this type, it has been pointed out, are unable to carry on after the first enthusiasm has been exhausted.

The local canteen, on the other hand, has been gradually expanding its services and improving its quarters.

Top aims of the Pickaway County Youth Canteen put special emphasis on the "spirit of religious and moral responsibility" of the boys and girls who visit it from all over the district.

FIVE ROOMS make up the canteen's quarters in the heart of Circleville's downtown area. A juke box and piano are included in the furishings of a large hall used for dancing.

In a room set aside for reading and quiet relaxation are various games, magazines and a television set. A food bar, booths and ping pong tables are located in the canteen's Varsity Room.

Much of the canteen's success has been traced to a smooth system of joint control by grown-ups and the young members themselves. The canteen's youth group joins with the Parent's Association in guiding all administrative matters. All boys and girls of teen age are eligible for membership.

The canteen is open four nights a week, from 7:30 to 10:30, during which time designated grown-ups are on hand to supervise activities. The parents group directs this important task.

Approximately 225 members are now listed by the organization. An average of 65 boys and girls, it has been estimated, attend the canteen each night it is open.

Circleville's police department has rated the canteen a strong factor working against juvenile delinquency in the district.

The Pickaway County Community Fund drive, first in the county's history, is now under way.

Ancient Columbus Statue 'Forgotten' As New One Comes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 20-foot bronze statue of Christopher Columbus will be unveiled here on the discoverer's birthday, Oct. 12. But it seems everybody's forgotten about its much smaller ancestor.

A nine-foot copper statue of old Chris has been standing here since its creation in 1892. In 1932, the statue was removed from the lawn of the old Josephinum College and placed in the west yard of the statehouse.

There it stands today, weather-beaten to a green tinge. From its outstretched hand, a dove was twice stolen and twice replaced. Each year on Columbus Day a wreath was laid at the statue.

Now, with the new and bigger statue arriving, a gift from Genoa, Italy, the ceremony will be switched from the old Chris to the new Chris. But maybe that's the way Chris Columbus would want it. After all, no one can say he wasn't a man of progress.

ed that the new law does not enlarge the territorial jurisdiction of justices in criminal cases.

The opinion added that such jurisdiction in civil cases will be extended to include the "districts later to be established by the justice court commission."

The second opinion said justices may render final judgment only in criminal cases involving misdemeanor charges in which:

1. The complaint is "by a party injjured" and the defendent pleads guilty, or

2. Where the defendant pleads not guilty and waives in writing his right to a trial by jury.

O'Neill explained that a police officer or a representative of a state administrative agency is not "a party injured" in such cases.

The opinion added that in felony cases a justice is authorized only to conduct preliminary examinations and, in a proper case, to bind the accused to a grand jury.

He is a native of Turkey and one of the exchangees sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation. Kocak is a guest at the home of David Dowler near South Bloomfield.

In this country since last April, he related many interesting details of life in his native land.

"Turkey has been a democracy since 1924," Kocak reminded the Rotarians. "Our form of government is patterned after the U. S.

Evidence Grows President To Shun Reelection

President. And his recommendations carry great weight.

HARD WORKING, and with a temperament as rugged as the mountains of his native state of New Hampshire, Adams has gained a reputation around Washington as the man to see if you want something from the President.

Adams himself looks on his $20,000 - a-year job as protection for the President against the tremendous pressures that go with the job of the nation's chief executive.

The President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said that "of course" Vice President Nixon was consulted in advance of the decision by Adams to transfer his base of operations from Washington to Denver.

Adams always has handled most of Eisenhower's paper work up to the point of final decision or signature by the President.

Hagerty said Adams will be just about as close physically to the President here as he normally is in Washington.

The steady improvement in the President's health lessened the significance of meetings in Washington involving Nixon, who presides over a session of the Cabinet today.

Nixon called the session to consider matters on which he had been briefed in advance. Although secret, they were expected to include budgetary and other departmental matters which Nixon has described as routine.

Some consideration was expected also of ways to reduce the President's workload when he is able to resume his normal duties.

The President is expected to be given a fill-in on today's meeting when he is able to discuss such matters with aides, just as he will be eventually on yesterday's 2½-hour meeting of the National Security Council, over which Nixon also presided.

Plum Resigns His Duties As Deputy Sheriff

health. I guess I cannot get used to this work but do like it very much.

"I would rather work for you than any other person that I know. You have been like a father to me for a long time.

"I hate to turn you down now, but I cannot stand the (hours involved in this) work. I did not know that when I asked for the job.

"If at anytime I can do anything for you, please let me know. . . . . "

Sheriff Radcliff said he had no immediate plans for a replacement for Plum. He added that Plum's resignation "hit me like a bombshell", saying he thinks highly of Plum and that he had done "a wonderful job in the short time he has been with the department."

(SINCE 1952, Plum had been a special deputy and did part-time voluntary work for the sheriff.)

The sheriff said he has been trying "to ease the situation" of his deputies. He said there is too much work for only three full-time deputies but that there apparently is no money to hire additional help or increase his deputies' salaries.

Plum's resignation leaves deputies Carl White and Dwight Radcliff on full-time duty (both earn $275 a month), Bill Snyder (who was hired as a night jailer at $215 a month) and Mrs. Helen Strous (who has charge of the office paper work and who earns $200 a month.)

2,500 Cincinnati Workers Strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — About 2,500 employes of the Electric Auto Lite Co.'s lamp division plant in nearby Evendale are on strike.

The Lampworkers Collective Bargaining Assn., an independent union, called the strike. It also took off the job 700 AFL Metal Polishers' Union workers, who refused to cross picket lines.

Thomas Raley, vice president of the striking union, said the strike was called because "the company just wasn't showing good faith" in new contract negotiations.

City Medical Clinic Results Reported

The annual medical clinic for the city's first grade pupils has been completed. And as a result, medical and dental care has been recommended for many of the boys and girls.

The clinic was held at the Franklin St. school.

Approximately 167 students were examined by the staff, which included eight doctors, three optometrists, two dentists and two laboratory technicians in addition to nearly 42 other workers.

A large number of students were found to be in need of dental care. Some were told they would need their tonsils removed. In all cases where care was indicated, slips were sent out and they are to be returned after the treatment is completed.

The clinic, which is held annually, is under the sponsorship of the health council of the Circleville Parent-Teachers Association.

Years Enhance Great History Of Logan Elm

Sunday's Program Will Be Indoors In Case Of Rain

The annual Logan Elm celebration, scheduled for 2 p. m. Sunday in Logan Elm Park, south of Circleville, was first observed under the branches of the great tree in 1912.

It was held under the sponsorship of the Ohio History Day Association, organized in that year, and the festivity has been sponsored by the association ever since.

Under this tree, Indian Chief Logan is said to have delivered his impasioned oration to a messenger of Lord Dunmore's frontier army 181 years ago. Since then, the tree has been memorialized by pioneers and succeeding generations as "The Logan Elm."

The land where the tree grows first came into the hands of Major John Boggs in 1798. Major Boggs learned of the historical facts about the land and tree from his father, who was familiar with the Lord Dunmore frontier war and who knew many of the men who fought in it.

THE LAND remained in the Boggs family until 1888 when it was sold to Mrs. Wallace of Chillicothe. It later was sold to Dr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, who sold the land to the State of Ohio around 1911.

Citizens of Pickaway and Ross Counties provided funds for the granite and bronze monument, where a cameo of the Logan Elm and a profile of Logan as well as his speech, is embossed.

Although no one seem to know for sure, guesses on the age of the great elm have arranged from 500 to 1,000 years old. It is said to be "Ohio's oldest living thing" and some go so far as to say it is the oldest living thing east of the Mississippi River.

Sunday's program will be presented by the pupils of the Jackson Twp. Centralized School and Harford Renick, of Pickaway County, will be the featured speaker.

Logan Elm Park is located one mile east of U. S. Rt. 23, seven miles south of Circleville. In case or rain, the event will be presented in the Pickaway Township School Auditorium.

Williamsport Man Falls From Roof

A Williamsport Route 2 man who fell from a roof while painting it Thursday is in "fair" condition in Berger Hospital.

George B. Bochard, 68, suffered head injuries, lacerations of the forehead, right and left arms and a back injury, according to a report by Deputy Sheriff Bill Plum. Bochard fell approximately 20 feet to a cement sidewalk, the deputy said.

Deputy Plum said he happened to be in the area by chance when a resident told him of the accident. The deputy said it took him only about two minutes to get to the scene.

Bochard was painting the roof of his house, located approximately two miles south of Williamsport on the Williamsport - Chillicothe Rd., when he apparently slipped and fell.

Deputies Find 3 Stolen Cars In Past Week

Sheriff's deputies have hit a streak of recovering stolen cars. Three of them have been found by deputies within the past week.

Deputy Carl White, in recovering a car at DuPont Rd. and Route 23 south of here, also apprehended two runaways from Cleveland. The youths, 14 and 15, were found near the car.

Investigation showed that the boys had stolen three cars in their flight from Cleveland, according to Deputy White. They have been turned over to Columbus police to face a stolen car charge there.

Earlier in the week, Deputy White recovered a car stolen from Delaware. He discovered the car on Walnut St. here.

DEPUTY BILL PLUM discovered a stolen car Thursday on Route 3—62. The location is between Harrisburg and Derby.

Deputy Plum also reported he had apprehended four suspects, two men and two women, in connection with a gas and battery stealing gang. He said the quartet, all from the Circleville area, allegedly admitted several thefts, not only in Pickaway County but also in surrounding areas.

Youth Canteen Now Recognized As Vital Part Of Community Life

Pickaway County Youth Canteen, one of five agencies that will share in money raised by the Community Fund, today outlined the policy that has made it an important part of daily life for the community.

Success of the canteen, located in rooms above the First National Bank, has attracted commendations from over a wide section of the state. Many organizations of this type, it has been pointed out, are unable to carry on after the first enthusiasm has been exhausted.

The local canteen, on the other hand, has been gradually expanding its services and improving its quarters.

Top aims of the Pickaway County Youth Canteen put special emphasis on the "spirit of religious and moral responsibility" of the boys and girls who visit it from all over the district.

FIVE ROOMS make up the canteen's quarters in the heart of Circleville's downtown area. A juke box and piano are included in the furishings of a large hall used for dancing.

In a room set aside for reading and quiet relaxation are various games, magazines and a television set. A food bar, booths and ping pong tables are located in the canteen's Varsity Room.

Much of the canteen's success has been traced to a smooth system of joint control by grown-ups and the young members themselves. The canteen's youth group joins with the Parent's Association in guiding all administrative matters. All boys and girls of teen age are eligible for membership.

The canteen is open four nights a week, from 7:30 to 10:30, during which time designated grown-ups are on hand to supervise activities. The parents group directs this important task.

Approximately 225 members are now listed by the organization. An average of 65 boys and girls, it has been estimated, attend the canteen each night it is open.

Circleville's police department has rated the canteen a strong factor working against juvenile delinquency in the district.

The Pickaway County Community Fund drive, first in the county's history, is now under way.

Ancient Columbus Statue 'Forgotten' As New One Comes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 20-foot bronze statue of Christopher Columbus will be unveiled here on the discoverer's birthday, Oct. 12. But it seems everybody's forgotten about its much smaller ancestor.

A nine-foot copper statue of old Chris has been standing here since its creation in 1892. In 1932, the statue was removed from the lawn of the old Josephinum College and placed in the west yard of the statehouse.

There it stands today, weather-beaten to a green tinge. From its outstretched hand, a dove was twice stolen and twice replaced. Each year on Columbus Day a wreath was laid at the statue.

Now, with the new and bigger statue arriving, a gift from Genoa, Italy, the ceremony will be switched from the old Chris to the new Chris. But maybe that's the way Chris Columbus would want it. After all, no one can say he wasn't a man of progress.

Attila the Hun had 400 wives.

ed that the new law does not enlarge the territorial jurisdiction of justices in criminal cases.

The opinion added that such jurisdiction in civil cases will be extended to include the "districts later to be established by the justice court commission."

The second opinion said justices may render final judgment only in criminal cases involving misdemeanor charges in which:

1. The complaint is "by a party injjured" and the defendent pleads guilty, or

2. Where the defendant pleads not guilty and waives in writing his right to a trial by jury.

O'Neill explained that a police officer or a representative of a state administrative agency is not "a party injured" in such cases.

The opinion added that in felony cases a justice is authorized only to conduct preliminary examinations and, in a proper case, to bind the accused to a grand jury.

Rotary Hears Talk On Life In Turkey

Fevzi Kocak, a young farmer visiting in this country under an international exchange program, addressed the Thursday meeting of Circleville Rotary Club.

He is a native of Turkey and one of the exchangees sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation. Kocak is a guest at the home of David Dowler near South Bloomfield.

In this country since last April, he related many interesting details of life in his native land.

"Turkey has been a democracy since 1924," Kocak reminded the Rotarians. "Our form of government is patterned after the U. S.

"AGRICULTURE is the backbone of the Turkish economy. The majority of people there are engaged in farming and its associated activities."

Kocak said he likes American people and this country very much. He added that he is enjoying his stay here.

After his talk, Kocak answered questions from the members. One comment which drew applause was: "The Turkish people do not like the Russians, their neighbor to the north."

Evidence Grows President To Shun Reelection

President. And his recommendations carry great weight.

HARD WORKING, and with a temperament as rugged as the mountains of his native state of New Hampshire, Adams has gained a reputation around Washington as the man to see if you want something from the President.

Adams himself looks on his $20,000 - a-year job as protection for the President against the tremendous pressures that go with the job of the nation's chief executive.

The President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said that "of course" Vice President Nixon was consulted in advance of the decision by Adams to transfer his base of operations from Washington to Denver.

Adams always has handled most of Eisenhower's paper work up to the point of final decision or signature by the President.

Hagerty said Adams will be just about as close physically to the President here as he normally is in Washington.

The steady improvement in the President's health lessened the significance of meetings in Washington involving Nixon, who presides over a session of the Cabinet today.

Nixon called the session to consider matters on which he had been briefed in advance. Although secret, they were expected to include budgetary and other departmental matters which Nixon has described as routine.

World Today

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even though he doesn't run again, President Eisenhower will be in a position to dominate the Republican convention next year and perhap handpick the GOP presidential nominee, if he so chooses.

As matters now stand, a candidate seeking the Republican nomination with Eisenhower's opposition would be tilting hopelessly with windmills. But the man given the nod by the President would have an advantage so great that it would appear unassailable.

In the weeks ahead, assuming the President has a normal recovery as it appears he will, the professional politicians will be watching to see:

1. What Eisenhower's decision will be on running again.

2. If he doesn't run, whom will he support as the man to carry on the program he has launched.

Eisenhower's close friends in Denver say the best bet is the President will finish out his term and then retire to his Gettysburg farm, making himself available as an "elder statesman."

But some Republican leaders still are hopeful the President will run, and they point to opinions by heart specialists that after his convalescence he should be able to live a normal life.

The flaw in these hopes is that no one can say the life of a President — with the tremendous pressures involved — is a "normal life." The Republican optimism about Eisenhower running again may well be a case of whistling in the dark.

In all the confusion, there are some certainties: The Republicans will depend on Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign in one way or another. If they can't have the man himself as their candidate, then they'll run on his record, program and policies.

But this means coming up with a nominee who supports the Eisenhower policies and who is supported in turn by Eisenhower. Already the names of Vice President Richard Nixon (age 42), Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey (65), Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother (56), Gov. Goodwin Knight of California (58) and others are being mentioned as possible candidates.

The President chose Nixon as his running mate in 1952. He gave Nixon a place in the inner councils of the executive branch of government which enhanced his prestige and gave him valuable administrative experience.

But, when Eisenhower chose Nixon as his running mate, did he intend that Nixon should be the next GOP candidate? Eisenhower hasn't said as much and until he does, the matter remains in doubt.

Topeka Airmen Rated Tops In Recon Tests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gen. Curtis M. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, today presents the 55th Wing of Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kan., with the winning trophy in SAC's fourth reconnaissance and navigation competition.

Unofficial returns last night showed the 55th had clinched the Brig. Gen. P. T. Cullen trophy by scoring 1,658 points in combined photo and navigational aspects of the competition. SAC emphasized, however, that official results will not be known until later today.

Behind the 55th in the five-wing competition was the 26th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing, Lockbourne AFB here, with 1,533 points, and the 90th SR Wing, Forbes AFB, with 1,457.

Little Rock (Ark.) AFB, which also had planes participating, did not make the top three brackets.

About 15 RB47 jets flew over 11 U. S. cities taking pictures both day and night. There were two flights from Lockbourne, one leaving Tuesday and the other yesterday. Scores were based on efficiency and the least mistakes made in picture taking and the navigator's log.

The "umpire" rode along with the crew of three in each plane.

The 55th also took first place in individual photography and individual navigation phases of the contest.

The top scoring crew for combined photo and navigation came from the 91st SR wing, Lockbourne AFB, and this same crew also won the individual navigation phase. A crew from the 90th SR wing garnered individual navigation honors.

Lockbourne GI Hurt In Mishap

COLUMBUS (AP)—S-Sgt. Alfred O. Haverfield, 23, was slightly injured last night when a piece of rotor blade from an overturned helicopter flew through an office window at Lockbourne AFB.

The helicopter was landing when a gust of wind blew it over on its side. The craft's two occupants were slightly bruised.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However unsigned letters will be disregarded. Nom de plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD: ...

As the time is rapidly approaching when our lowering water table will become critical, may I suggest a plan that schould be helpful.

First we need a very large number of small farm ponds of roughly one acre extent. While these would be helpful in storing surplus water they would have very little effect on the water table as the bottom soon becomes nearly watertight.

In order to benefit the underground supply let there be a program of special wells to carry the surplus down to the gravel by sinking say 16 or 18 foot wells with power post-hole diggers, using when necessary a temporary casing, and filling immediately with very course gravel.

These wells would be sunk to the sand or gravel where possible or to rock and would be finished at top with a concrete curb one or two feet high to keep out mud, the top of curb being, say, one to two feet below top flood level of pond, thus allowing the top foot or two to seep down the well to the gravel and helping to raise the water level.

It would probably be necessary to clean out the top few inches of gravel every year and replace with clean gravel.

As this program would be of little direct advantage to the farm owner, it should be a county or state program financed by state funds.

Actress Undergoes Lung Operation

BOSTON (AP)—Actress Katharine Cornell yesterday successfully underwent an operation at New England Deaconess Hospital because of a small, chronic abscess.

The hospital said the operation called for partial removal of a lung lobe. It was anticipated that Miss Cornell, who is 57, will be able to fulfill a planned November stage tour.

In the past 100 years, more than four billion tons of freight has passed through the Sault Ste. Marie locks on the Great Lakes.

World Today

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even though he doesn't run again, President Eisenhower will be in a position to dominate the Republican convention next year and perhap handpick the GOP presidential nominee, if he so chooses.

As matters now stand, a candidate seeking the Republican nomination with Eisenhower's opposition would be tilting hopelessly with windmills. But the man given the nod by the President would have an advantage so great that it would appear unassailable.

In the weeks ahead, assuming the President has a normal recovery as it appears he will, the professional politicians will be watching to see:

1. What Eisenhower's decision will be on running again.

2. If he doesn't run, whom will he support as the man to carry on the program he has launched.

Eisenhower's close friends in Denver say the best bet is the President will finish out his term and then retire to his Gettysburg farm, making himself available as an "elder statesman."

But some Republican leaders still are hopeful the President will run, and they point to opinions by heart specialists that after his convalescence he should be able to live a normal life.

The flaw in these hopes is that no one can say the life of a President — with the tremendous pressures involved — is a "normal life." The Republican optimism about Eisenhower running again may well be a case of whistling in the dark.

In all the confusion, there are some certainties: The Republicans will depend on Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign in one way or another. If they can't have the man himself as their candidate, then they'll run on his record, program and policies.

But this means coming up with a nominee who supports the Eisenhower policies and who is supported in turn by Eisenhower. Already the names of Vice President Richard Nixon (age 42), Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey (65), Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother (56), Gov. Goodwin Knight of California (58) and others are being mentioned as possible candidates.

The President chose Nixon as his running mate in 1952. He gave Nixon a place in the inner councils of the executive branch of government which enhanced his prestige and gave him valuable administrative experience.

But, when Eisenhower chose Nixon as his running mate, did he intend that Nixon should be the next GOP candidate? Eisenhower hasn't said as much and until he does, the matter remains in doubt.

Topeka Airmen Rated Tops In Recon Tests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gen. Curtis M. LeMay, chief of the Strategic Air Command, today presents the 55th Wing of Forbes Air Force Base, Topeka, Kan., with the winning trophy in SAC's fourth reconnaissance and navigation competition.

Unofficial returns last night showed the 55th had clinched the Brig. Gen. P. T. Cullen trophy by scoring 1,658 points in combined photo and navigational aspects of the competition. SAC emphasized, however, that official results will not be known until later today.

Behind the 55th in the five-wing competition was the 26th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing, Lockbourne AFB here, with 1,533 points, and the 90th SR Wing, Forbes AFB, with 1,457.

Little Rock (Ark.) AFB, which also had planes participating, did not make the top three brackets.

About 15 RB47 jets flew over 11 U. S. cities taking pictures both day and night. There were two flights from Lockbourne, one leaving Tuesday and the other yesterday. Scores were based on efficiency and the least mistakes made in picture taking and the navigator's log.

The "umpire" rode along with the crew of three in each plane.

The 55th also took first place in individual photography and individual navigation phases of the contest.

The top scoring crew for combined photo and navigation came from the 91st SR wing, Lockbourne AFB, and this same crew also won the individual navigation phase. A crew from the 90th SR wing garnered individual navigation honors.

Lockbourne GI Hurt In Mishap

COLUMBUS (AP)—S-Sgt. Alfred O. Haverfield, 23, was slightly injured last night when a piece of rotor blade from an overturned helicopter flew through an office window at Lockbourne AFB.

The helicopter was landing when a gust of wind blew it over on its side. The craft's two occupants were slightly bruised.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However unsigned letters will be disregarded. Nom de plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD: ...

As the time is rapidly approaching when our lowering water table will become critical, may I suggest a plan that schould be helpful.

First we need a very large number of small farm ponds of roughly one acre extent. While these would be helpful in storing surplus water they would have very little effect on the water table as the bottom soon becomes nearly watertight.

In order to benefit the underground supply let there be a program of special wells to carry the surplus down to the gravel by sinking say 16 or 18 foot wells with power post-hole diggers, using when necessary a temporary casing, and filling immediately with very course gravel.

These wells would be sunk to the sand or gravel where possible or to rock and would be finished at top with a concrete curb one or two feet high to keep out mud, the top of curb being, say, one to two feet below top flood level of pond, thus allowing the top foot or two to seep down the well to the gravel and helping to raise the water level.

It would probably be necessary to clean out the top few inches of gravel every year and replace with clean gravel.

As this program would be of little direct advantage to the farm owner, it should be a county or state program financed by state funds.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am frantic and in great trouble. My daughter was married in June. She had an elaborate wedding with flower girls and a large reception.

She lives in a small town, on the same street as her in-laws who, by the way, are wonderful people. They have a business establishment and are well known.

Last week my daughter told me that she is expecting a child in December. You can imagine what a blow that was. The husband's parents have also been told; and they, too, are heartbroken. We all feel so ashamed.

Can you suggest some way that people wouldn't know of the baby's birth date. I thought they should move out of town, but then the husband wouldn't have work. Please do give us an answer. If only they hadn't had such a large wedding!

S. P.

DEAR S. P.: You may be frantic, but you aren't in great trouble—and to claim that you are is ridiculous. It is embarrassing, naturally, that the first grandchild is arriving so unseasonably fast on the heels of the formal wedding pageantry. But you wouldn't be much of a person, nor much of a lady, if you can't keep your poise while the news gets around—sustained by love in your heart for all concerned, and thankfulness to God that the problem has been met to the extent that it has.

It is wrong of you to take a hand - wringing attitude about "what people will think," at this time when your daughter needs sensible emotional support, and the guidance of a stuq compassionate forward - looking philosophy, in getting her values straight for the long haul of life.

The fact that you are grieving hysterically, on learning what must be faced, suggests that in the past you may have been a more demoralizing than helpful figure in your daughter's experience, too. Especially in situations or discussions having to do with sin. Perhaps she had come to count your excitable temperament a problem in itself, quite aside from other difficulties she was confronting in life. Maybe she feared to disturb you and consequently fell into major mistakes, trying to chart courses without the help of good counsel.

Or, to borrow from analytic theories of a few years back, her immediate situation may reflect a militant unconscious rejection of your personal pattern of social striving. (Or glory seeking, as she may feel it to be).

Puts Self Aside

One wonders why she and the bridegroom permitted themselves to be put through the paces of a big fussy wedding and reception, in the circumstances. The probable answer is that the bride's mother (or parents) wanted it that way—not knowing the whole story—and the young people simply lacked courage to take a veto stand.

In general, the meekly biddable son or daughter is of a different mind unconsciously—in a mood of revolt oft unsensed by the self. Which might account for your daughter's seemingly paradoxical performance.

As for what to do about the baby's birth date—don't feel so involved in it! And don't dwell imaginatively on the public reaction. Just be a good grandmother to the best of your ability, beginning now. Give your daughter friendly evidence of calm affectionate continuing interest in the welfare of her marriage and the child she expects. When the child is born, and afterwards, give him the open-hearted welcome that is every babe's birthright.

Walkout To End At Kyger Creek

GALLIPOLIS (AP)—All employes were expected to return to work Monday at the nearby Kyger Creek power plant after union officials ordered picketing ended.

About 1,400 construction workers have been idled since Tuesday by the strike of teamsters.

F. R. Carman, resident engineer, said the men were told to return to work while their dispute is being arbitrated. The dispute involves transportation of materials by sheet metal workers which teamsters and warehousemen contend violates the contract, Carman said.

Hawaii Reports Wyoming Wreck

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—The accident happened in Rawlins, Wyo., but police say the speedy report went by way of Honolulu.

A ham radio operator saw the accident on Highway 30 about 23 miles west of Rawlins and broadcast an appeal for aid. The message was picked up by another amateur operator in Honolulu, some 2,200 miles west of here.

The Honolulu operator relayed the appeal, which was received by a ham here and reported to police. Officer Freeman Calvert, who sent a teletype message to Rawlins, said the entire transmission took less than 20 minutes, probably quicker than if the witness had driven directly to Rawlings.

Soviet Presidium OKs POW Freedom

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union, keeping its promises to the Germans, is releasing 9,626 German war prisoners.

The Moscow press Thursday published a decree of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet ordering the prisoners freed.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin told West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer during their talks here earlier this month that Russia would release the prisoners.

The West Germans claim the Soviets have not accounted for 80,000 to 100,000 German prisoners, but Bulganin insisted Soviet records show only the 9,626.

The service asked an increase in its 30-day standard family contract rate from $4.10 a month to $4.60.

Police said the boy apparently was sliding down a rope tied to a tree when he slipped. The hat caught in a loop in the rope. The chin strap held and broke the boy's neck, police said.

Hawaii Reports Wyoming Wreck

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—The accident happened in Rawlins, Wyo., but police say the speedy report went by way of Honolulu.

A ham radio operator saw the accident on Highway 30 about 23 miles west of Rawlins and broadcast an appeal for aid. The message was picked up by another amateur operator in Honolulu, some 2,200 miles west of here.

The Honolulu operator relayed the appeal, which was received by a ham here and reported to police. Officer Freeman Calvert, who sent a teletype message to Rawlins, said the entire transmission took less than 20 minutes, probably quicker than if the witness had driven directly to Rawlings.

Soviet Presidium OKs POW Freedom

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union, keeping its promises to the Germans, is releasing 9,626 German war prisoners.

The Moscow press Thursday published a decree of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet ordering the prisoners freed.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin told West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer during their talks here earlier this month that Russia would release the prisoners.

The West Germans claim the Soviets have not accounted for 80,000 to 100,000 German prisoners, but Bulganin insisted Soviet records show only the 9,626.

Hospital Service Asks Rate Boost

COLUMBUS (AP)—State Insurance Supt. August Pyratel has scheduled a public hearing Oct. 19 in Columbus on the request of Central Hospital Service to increase Blue Cross rates in its 29-county area including Fayette, Hocking and Pickaway.

The service asked an increase in its 30-day standard family contract rate from $4.10 a month to $4.60.

Also asked was an increase in 30-day standard $25 deductible contract rates. The proposed increases were from $1.85 a month for individuals to $2.35 and from $4 a month for families to $4.30.

Many Communities Caught In Water Shortage Squeeze

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifteen years ago the residents of Grand Rapids, Mich., complained bitterly at the expense of building a 35-mile-long pipeline to bring water to the city from Lake Michigan.

Today the city's taxpayers are grumbling: "Who built that one-horse system back in 1940? Now we've got to build one a lot bigger."

A 48-state survey by The Associated Press shows the Grand Rapids episode is typical of hundreds of U.S. cities and towns.

Caught in a three-way squeeze between fast-growing population, booming industry and recurring dry spells, countless communities are suddenly discovering their water facilities just won't do the job.

Only three states — Idaho, Mississippi and Rhode Island—reported no water shortage problems.

In the booming Detroit area, some 20 outlying communities which have sprung up in the mass march to the suburbs have been tapping the city's water supply. As a result, Detroit has been forced to install a new 200-million-gallon pumping station, and police-enforced water bans have been clamped down in the area.

Detroit's giant auto industry is watching the situation with serious concern: it takes 15,000 gallons of water, mostly for cooling hot metals, to produce one automobile.

Escaped Killers Hinted In Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The search for two escaped murderers from London Prison Farm shifted to Dayton today when police here reported finding a truck believed used in the get-away.

Jerome Oates, 34, of Youngstown, one of the fugitives, had used the truck as part of his duties in and outside the prison, Associate Supt. George E. Miller said.

The other escapee, Walter Jones, 25, of Cleveland, is believed to have joined Oates when the two fled yesterday.

Oates and Jones both are lifers and honor inmates, Miller said. Oates had served about five years of his sentence for second degree murder in Mahoning County, and Jones had completed about seven years for first degree murder in Cuyahoga County.

GOP School Slated

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ray C. Bliss, Ohio Republican chairman, says a GOP school on campaign techniques is planned here Nov. 14-15 for state committee members and county chairmen.

Pickaway County Farmers Told About Benefits Of Good Pasture

Pickaway County farmers would do well to concentrate on maintaining a good pasture, according to information released by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

The committee points out that good pasture is the most economical source of feed for livestock—and Pickaway County has plenty of livestock. High quality pasture can produce up to 100 pounds of total digestible nutrients for approximately 75 cents, the committee quotes farm economists.

If this were carried out in Pickaway County, according to the report, savings on feed of $3 per hog could be realized if the swine were fed on high quality pasture. For according to studies by livestock specialists, the 100 pounds of high quality nutrients which would be produced for 75 cents would require $3 worth of corn to duplicate.

Pasture-fed hogs require 30 per cent less grain and 50 per cent less protein supplement, says a University of Missouri livestock extension specialist. This would represent a huge saving to Pickaway County farmers, who raise fine quality swine.

THE SPECIALIST estimated that an acre of alfalfa or red clover could carry 20 hogs from weaning to market. Figuring a savings of 20 bushels of grain and 600 pounds of protein supplement, nearly $60 might be saved in getting those 20 hogs to market.

An agronomist reports that beef production has been boosted from less than 100 pounds to more than 500 pounds per acre by pasture improvement practices in some Midwestern demonstrations.

The committee says that good pasture not only cuts feed bills but also provides good sanitation for livestock. Good pasture also cuts down filthborne diseases that cause big hog losses each year, the group adds.

Three factors govern whether a pasture stand is good or bad, according to the committee:

1. The soil's fertility level—most of the soil in Pickaway County is considered good.
2. The use of well-adapted legume grass mixtures.
3. Good grazing management.

"THE PRESENCE or absence of plant nutrients is especially important," says the committee. "When the soil is well supplied with nitrogen, phosphate and potash higher yields and more protein are possible.

"To maintain stands at high production levels, a well-balanced fertilizer should be added regularly."

Storm Shakes Up TWA Passenger

CINCINNATI (AP) — Richard Imiter, of Chicago, suffered two broken ribs last night as he was thrown from his seat in a TWA airliner which was approaching Cincinnati during a storm. He was taken to a hospital in Covington, Ky.

The storm dumped more than an inch of rain on Cincinnati and was accompanied by high wind and hail. It knocked out electrical service for a time in suburban Mt. Healthy and Greenhills.

GLIMPSE OF FUTURE

AMERICANS will earn more, work less and stop worrying about their material wants in 1975. That is the forecast of a group of leading United States business leaders.

Some typical prognostications of these corporation heads are:

Americans will work six hours less each week, and earn 25 per cent more for their labors.

Highways will be crowded with 80 million passenger cars, as compared with 50 million today, and they will be powered by nuclear energy.

U. S. population will rise to 213 million.

Employment, now 65 million, will rise to a record 85 million. More old people and women will be employed.

By 1975 there will be at least 92 million TV sets, 90 per cent of which will feature color. Guided missiles probably will land on planets and transmit television pictures of them automatically back to earth.

One corporation head declared, "I expect the continued growth of the U. S. economy over the next 20 years will amaze the world and, very probably, ourselves."

These predictions of top officials of 26 corporations were placed in a time of 26 sule and sealed in a cornerstone of a New Jersey office building under construction.

TURNING POINT?

IF ARGENTINA, with the passing of Peron from the scene, is to be politically free its liberation from dictatorship could mark a turning point for popular government in the world.

At the beginning of the century Middle Europe and Russia were under the pall of authoritarianism. Russia merely switched from one despotism to another. The current one is more menacing than the first because it operates under a fervor of expansionism which already has erased liberties in a large part of Eurasia.

Many of the Middle European countries enjoyed their greatest freedom after World War I had broken up Austria-Hungary and removed the power of the kaiser. The rise of Hitler, Mussolini and other turned the clock back. Communist Russia picked up where they left off.

But there are signs of a turn in the nationalistic uprisings in many lands, principally in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Such uprisings could be converted into popular government in the next few years, or they could fall into the dreary rut of dictatorship.

If popular government succeeds communism as the expanding ideology, the world will be on its way to a golden age.

GIVING NOTHING

BEST DESCRIPTION of Russia's "generosity" in giving back the Prokkala base to Finland is that it is merely a reminder that Finland today is a truncated state in direct consequence of an unprovoked Russian aggression.

All of the Finnish southeast, the territory of Karelia, enclosing the great city of Viipuri and half of Lake Ladoga, is under the Russian flag. In the north, the port of Petsamo and the wide corridor which 15 years ago gave the Finns access to the northern seas, have become part of Russia. North of the Finnish waist, on the eastern frontier, a third strip of Finland, with 20 times the area of the Porkkala peninsula, is permanently in Russian hands.

Thus, Marshal Zhukov's suggestion that the United States abandon its bases in Europe, because Russia has yielded Porkkala, is about as ludicrous as anything that has emanated from Moscow recently.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of John Marshall (born Sept. 24, 1755 this year ought to focus attention upon the peculiar role which the Supreme Court plays in the governmental structure of the United States. No other country possesses a similar institution. No court in Great Britain, for instance, can declare an act of Parliament unconstitutional, although Parliament can and does place restraints upon the monarch.

The nature of the Supreme Court, as defined in the Constitution and as it developed over the years, is a product of our Federal system and the historic fact that each state is sovereign by its own right. Former Justice Charles Evans Hughes states this in most cogent language:

". . .The proposed Federal government was of necessity, in view of the existence of the State and of the sentiment which supported them as autonomous within their spheres, to be one of limited powers. . ."

Obviously an arbiter, an umpire, had to be established to protect each state in its rights and at the same time to prevent the Federal government from collapsing from want of authority. There was great difference of opinion among the Founding Fathers as to how much power was to be delegated to the Federal government.

Those who followed the ideas of Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Jay favored a powerful Federal government; those who followed the judgment of Thomas Jefferson supported the idea of a weak Federal government with considerable emphasis on states' rights.

Hamilton, in "The Federalist," described the Supreme Court, as it appeared in the Constitution, as follows:

". . The judiciary, on the contrary, has no influence over either the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society; and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither force nor will, but merely judgment; and must ultimately depend upon the air of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgments.

"This simple view of the matter suggests several important consequences. It proves incontestably, that the judiciary is beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power; that it can never attack with success either of the other two; and that all possible care is requisite to enable it to defend itself against their attacks. . ."

Hamilton wanted the Court to be more effective and stronger than the Constitution made it. That task fell to John Marshall who accomplished it by a series of fundamental decisions. In these days the Supreme Court is entraordinarily powerful; it exercises a power over both the executive and the legislative branches of government by a veto power, not stipulated in the Constitution but developed in the decisions of John Marshall, the acceptance of which by the people has given the Court a moral force of extraordinary dimensions.

John Marshall was the third Chief Justice of the United States, the first being John Jay. (Rutledge was not confirmed.) Marshall served from 1801 to 1835 which gave him a long tenure during the formative years of our history. Marshall was a believer in strong Federal government, differing from his cousin, Thomas Jefferson, who starting as his political opponent became his personal enemy.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

PINKY watched Adam unblinkingly after telling him that Ann knew about them. She saw red streak into his lean cheeks, saw his knuckles whitten as he grasped the wrapped reed of the chair arm. "Did you tell her?" he demanded, his voice rasping.

"I didn't have to tell her. She found out."

"She's not said a thing."

"I happened to learn."

He growled in his throat, and lit a fresh cigaret, his hands jerky.

"One night last week," said Pinky, turning to face him, her hands clasped about her knee. "You were busy moving you know? I got lonely and I went down to the bar—and who do you think was in there?" She didn't wait for a reply. "D'you remember that brash A.F. sergeant who was up at the Lodge? The chap with the scar? Well, he was there—and he told me a very funny story." Now she waited.

"Yes?" said Adam tightly.

Pinky nodded with satisfaction. "A-hum! It seems that he and the lieutenant were out on the highway one day, and their car got into the sand or the ditch or something—and luckily for them, there was a picnic going on in the vicinity—complete with Chrysler station wagon parked close to where a bunch of girls were having a time for themselves. The sergeant made quite a story of going over, asking for help, being invited to eat with the bevy of beautiful women—and, he said, it turned out that the most beautiful of them all owned the station wagon. She agreed to push them out of their ditch or whatever, and in response to some remark the chaperone informed him that the beautiful girl was Mrs. Adam Laird." Eyes wide and watchful, Pinky waited on Adam's reaction. He sat, graven-faced and still.

"And, of course," said Pinky laughing gaily, "the big sap blurted out that he'd met an Adam Laird with a red-head in tow, up at the Lodge on the night of the storm."

"And then what?" Adam demanded.

"Nothing, I guess. But isn't it a scream?"

Adam stood up, and put on his hat. "No," he said. "It's not funny."

Pinky stood up, too, and moved toward Adam. "Sugar?" she said throatily. "Let's go to Taos?" Her hand was on his shoulder. He was aware of her perfume, her nearness. From the dining room, the guitarist in his blue and fuschia satin played a tune of love and moonlight.

Adam's jaw glistened silvery white under the stretched brown skin as he remembered, and resented, Ann's coldness, her indifference. Ever since coming to New Mexico, she'd acted that way! While Pinky . . .

His wife had her claim upon him, of course. But if she'd be just a little more eager for his attention, he'd know more positively what he should do, be more sure.

He patted Pinky's bare shoulder. "We won't go to Taos today," he said firmly.

"Pretty please? I got a yen."

He chuckled. "Put it on ice."

"Next week? Promise?"

"I'll promise this," he told her. "I'll promise to get things straightened out with Ann, this week. Somehow I'll do that. Will that satisfy you?"

"It isn't what I wanted you to say," she told him, her eyes glinting with her disappointment.

"It'll have to do us," he assured her. And he strode away. Now Pinky was mad—and that made two of 'em!

It took him two hours to get home, a matter of five miles. He found errands to do, and then when he finally did turn the car toward the canyon he drove it slowly. Once he stopped completely to sit and admire the changing colors of sunset there between the mountain peaks. The truth was, he dreaded going home, and was postponing his arrival there. He remembered Ann's voice when he'd left. There'd be a scene awaiting him.

So braced for "yak" had he been, that the quiet way Ann sat upon the couch, and the calmness with which she greeted him, were a greater shock than any accusation could have been.

"I told you," he spoke roughly, "to lock the door when you're alone!"

"I do. I heard you down the hill, and unlocked it."

"Oh." He crossed to the chair—and asked about the ashtray.

"I broke it," said Ann. Then, still in that calm tone, she asked if he'd had dinner.

"No."

She rose. "I'll fix something for us both."

"Haven't you eaten?"

"No—I—I—" She sat down again, and smoothed her trim blue skirt. "I've been thinking, Adam," she said quietly.

Here it comes, his mind warned. He picked up a magazine.

"I wish you'd listen to me."

"I'm listening."

"You see," she said slowly, picking her words as a child carefully would pick jackstraws from a tumbled heap, selecting the right ones, not wanting to disturb the others, "something happened about a month ago, Adam. I suppose it could be explained in various ways, but the way it happened made it seem . . ."

And she went on, in that careful, slightly troubled way, to tell about the Auxiliary picnic and what the airmen had said. She even tried to make the story funny.

Adam again felt his cheeks blaze, and prickles ran along his spine, clear up over the back of his head. He smoked a cigaret very fast, then got up jerkily and hunted for an ashtray.

"They just jumped to conclusions," he said, when Ann paused. "Strangers, you know—they just assumed—"

"That the woman with you was your wife." Her voice was soft, but when Adam ventured to glance at her, he saw that her brown eyes were brimming with tears. She bit at the corner of her mouth, trying hard not to weep.

But the tears gushed over, anyway, and she sobbed, and dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief, angry that she should weep when she so wanted to be calm and maturely poised.

She looked up at him, her lips parted, her wet eyelashes in dark wedges. "I didn't mean to break down," she told him. "But—it hurts, Adam. To think—to know—that you would embarrass me publicly.

"Well," he said unhappily. "I don't know that anything I could say would help that hurt."

"It might," she said quickly. "I'll listen if you want to try to explain."

"It's hard," he hedged. "I mean, a woman couldn't understand how a man gets into these things."

"Oh, that's not so," breathed Ann. She understood. She remembered Dr. Alexander. "I'll try to understand," she said steadily.

And so it was. He looked at her with surprise, and respect.

"But," she went on, her voice trembling, "what will happen to us next? Oh, darn!" She was weeping again. She had meant to be so calm, and reasonable!

Adam made a sound of commiseration, and came over to sit down beside her. "Don't, honey," he begged. "Don't cry. I mean, well, you've got a right to, I guess, but—" He laughed, miserably. "I don't want you to. I've been a heel, and I'm sorry—but, like I say, a man—well, it seems as if a man needs a woman to be nice to him!"

"And I haven't been nice," she admitted. "I knew I was acting awful—but I couldn't seem to help it. I was all mixed up. I guess we're both to blame!"

He patted her shoulder and scowled unhappily. Gee whiz! She was just a kid. He'd expected her to tell him, over and over, how wrong he'd been, how he'd hurt her. But here she was, acknowledging that she was at fault! It certainly took the wind out of a man's sails.

"Maybe," Ann was saying, "the best thing for me now is to ask you to forgive me for the way I've been acting this past year—and maybe you'd be ready to help me make up for my mistakes."

He couldn't think of a thing to say, or do, except to draw her close and take out his handkerchief to wipe her cheeks.

She was just a kid. A man's strength was not a weapon to use against a girl like Ann! She had been at fault, somewhat—but great dog! A girl like Ann had no experienced skill with men. He should have known that, and gently pointed out to her what she was doing to him. She'd trusted Adam—as she should have had every right to trust him.

Instead, he'd let a slick, know-how dame work on him!

Women Play Odd Poker

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It has been an open secret for some time that men find women puzzling.

But the one thing about women that most men feel surest about is—they can't play poker well.

This hardy superstition is perpetrated in a new book called "Dealer's Choice," a collection of famous poker stories by Jerry D. Lewis, a former New York newspaperman.

Lewis, who cautiously dedicated his book "To Louise, without whom there could never be a full house," quotes a psychiatrist as follows:

"The average woman is too curious to play poker well. In an evening's play, she'll have a dozen hands where 'calling the bet' displays a suicide complex. Yet, she can no more resist throwing in the chips than she can help looking at the label in a friend's new coat."

Personally, I think this remark only shows the psychiatrist needs to have his head examined.

According to this theory, psychiatrists themselves should be lousy poker players, because they are more curious than the average woman. They are always asking if you have an overwhelming urge to stick thumbtacks into your mother or salt your daddy's beer.

And if curiosity alone were the halmark of idiocy, then it naturally would follow that the worst poker player of all would be a lady psychiatrist.

The curiosity to see what's in the other fellow's hand may be a sign of weakness in women at poker. But it is more than balanced by their uncanny ability to see what's in the other fellow's mind. And that is much more important.

Poker isn't a game. It's a matter of practical psychology. And who can figure out what a man will do even before he makes up his own mind? A woman—every time.

If wives really want to know why husbands don't like to let them into their poker games, here are the honest reasons:

1. They win too often.
2. You can't bluff them. They can see through a man's feeble pretense that he holds three aces when he actually only has a feeble pair of tens.
3. They cheat. If their instinct doesn't tell them what you have in your hand, they're always trying to peek.
4. After they win all the money, they expect the losers to walk home. They rarely offer to lend a man taxi fare.

The male prejudice against women poker players stems from one thing only—the manly need of self-defense. Let all man call me traitor for admitting it. But it's true.

No Harm In Tests Of Atomic Weapons

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

DON'T worry about those Nevada atomic bomb tests. They are not ruining your health.

While there has been speculation—and that's just what it is, speculation—about whether the blasts might harm future generations, present health and safety hazards have been reduced to a minimum.

No Serious Aftermath

Gordon M. Dunning, of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of biology and medicine, reports that after five major tests no one at the site has incurred radiation exposure that may be considered hazardous.

No one was found to be injured by shock waves, nor have there been any known cases of serious eye damage from light effects. Mr. Dunning's report appeared in a recent issue of a medical journal.

To Insure Safety

Here's what the government does to insure your safety during atomic tests:

The site of the testing area is in itself a safeguard, covering an area of some 600 square miles. In addition, an Air Force gunnery range consisting of 4,000 square miles adjoins it. There are also other wide expanses of sparsely populated land around the site.

One hundred full-time AEC employes and many additional part-time employes, throughout the country, carry out an extensive warning program before each test.

Other Precautions Taken

Just as important, they make repeated checks after a test.

After each blast, monitoring equipment at the site, in nearby communities and on mobile units measures the radioactive fallout. Planes track the clouds and plot the fall-out pattern on the ground. Ninety U. S. Weather Bureau stations and 10 AEC installations collect fall-out data.

The government, you see, keeps an accurate check on fall-out no matter where it occurs. That is one major reason why the Nevada tests have such an enviable safety record.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J.E.: I have an over-abundance of freckles. Is it safe to use any of the different solutions to get rid of them?

Answer: Freckles are generally due to excessive pigmentation of spots in the skin.

There is not much that can be done to get rid of them, but avoiding the sunlight might be helpful.

You should consult a dermatologist (skin specialist) about the removal of freckles.

GLIMPSE OF FUTURE

AMERICANS will earn more, work less and stop worrying about their material wants in 1975. That is the forecast of a group of leading United States business leaders.

Some typical prognostications of these corporation heads are:

Americans will work six hours less each week, and earn 25 per cent more for their labors.

Highways will be crowded with 80 million passenger cars, as compared with 50 million today, and they will be powered by nuclear energy.

U. S. population will rise to 213 million.

Employment, now 65 million, will rise to a record 85 million. More old people and women will be employed.

By 1975 there will be at least 92 million TV sets, 90 per cent of which will feature color. Guided missiles probably will land on planets and transmit television pictures of them automatically back to earth.

One corporation head declared, "I expect the continued growth of the U. S. economy over the next 20 years will amaze the world and, very probably, ourselves."

These predictions of top officials of 26 corporations were placed in a time of 26 sule and sealed in a cornerstone of a New Jersey office building under construction.

TURNING POINT?

IF ARGENTINA, with the passing of Peron from the scene, is to be politically free its liberation from dictatorship could mark a turning point for popular government in the world.

At the beginning of the century Middle Europe and Russia were under the pall of authoritarianism. Russia merely switched from one despotism to another. The current one is more menacing than the first because it operates under a fervor of expansionism which already has erased liberties in a large part of Eurasia.

Many of the Middle European countries enjoyed their greatest freedom after World War I had broken up Austria-Hungary and removed the power of the kaiser. The rise of Hitler, Mussolini and other turned the clock back. Communist Russia picked up where they left off.

But there are signs of a turn in the nationalistic uprisings in many lands, principally in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Such uprisings could be converted into popular government in the next few years, or they could fall into the dreary rut of dictatorship.

If popular government succeeds communism as the expanding ideology, the world will be on its way to a golden age.

GIVING NOTHING

BEST DESCRIPTION of Russia's "generosity" in giving back the Prokkala base to Finland is that it is merely a reminder that Finland today is a truncated state in direct consequence of an unprovoked Russian aggression.

All of the Finnish southeast, the territory of Karelia, enclosing the great city of Viipuri and half of Lake Ladoga, is under the Russian flag. In the north, the port of Petsamo and the wide corridor which 15 years ago gave the Finns access to the northern seas, have become part of Russia. North of the Finnish waist, on the eastern frontier, a third strip of Finland, with 20 times the area of the Porkkala peninsula, is permanently in Russian hands.

Thus, Marshal Zhukov's suggestion that the United States abandon its bases in Europe, because Russia has yielded Porkkala, is about as ludicrous as anything that has emanated from Moscow recently.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The celebration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of John Marshall (born Sept. 24, 1755 this year ought to focus attention upon the peculiar role which the Supreme Court plays in the governmental structure of the United States. No other country possesses a similar institution. No court in Great Britain, for instance, can declare an act of Parliament unconstitutional, although Parliament can and does place restraints upon the monarch.

The nature of the Supreme Court, as defined in the Constitution and as it developed over the years, is a product of our Federal system and the historic fact that each state is sovereign by its own right. Former Justice Charles Evans Hughes states this in most cogent language:

". . .The proposed Federal government was of necessity, in view of the existence of the State and of the sentiment which supported them as autonomous within their spheres, to be one of limited powers. . ."

Obviously an arbiter, an umpire, had to be established to protect each state in its rights and at the same time to prevent the Federal government from collapsing from want of authority. There was great difference of opinion among the Founding Fathers as to how much power was to be delegated to the Federal government.

Those who followed the ideas of Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Jay favored a powerful Federal government; those who followed the judgment of Thomas Jefferson supported the idea of a weak Federal government with considerable emphasis on states' rights.

Hamilton, in "The Federalist," described the Supreme Court, as it appeared in the Constitution, as follows:

". . The judiciary, on the contrary, has no influence over either the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society; and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither force nor will, but merely judgment; and must ultimately depend upon the air of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgments.

"This simple view of the matter suggests several important consequences. It proves incontestably, that the judiciary is beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power; that it can never attack with success either of the other two; and that all possible care is requisite to enable it to defend itself against their attacks. . ."

Hamilton wanted the Court to be more effective and stronger than the Constitution made it. That task fell to John Marshall who accomplished it by a series of fundamental decisions. In these days the Supreme Court is entraordinarily powerful; it exercises a power over both the executive and the legislative branches of government by a veto power, not stipulated in the Constitution but developed in the decisions of John Marshall, the acceptance of which by the people has given the Court a moral force of extraordinary dimensions.

John Marshall was the third Chief Justice of the United States, the first being John Jay. (Rutledge was not confirmed.) Marshall served from 1801 to 1835 which gave him a long tenure during the formative years of our history. Marshall was a believer in strong Federal government, differing from his cousin, Thomas Jefferson, who starting as his political opponent became his personal enemy.

MARRIAGE for THREE

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

PINKY watched Adam unblinkingly after telling him that Ann knew about them. She saw red streak into his lean cheeks, saw his knuckles whitten as he grasped the wrapped reed of the chair arm. "Did you tell her?" he demanded, his voice rasping.

"I didn't have to tell her. She found out."

"She's not said a thing."

"I happened to learn."

He growled in his throat, and lit a fresh cigaret, his hands jerky.

"One night last week," said Pinky, turning to face him, her hands clasped about her knee. "You were busy moving you know? I got lonely and I went down to the bar—and who do you think was in there?" She didn't wait for a reply. "D'you remember that brash A.F. sergeant who was up at the Lodge? The chap with the scar? Well, he was there—and he told me a very funny story." Now she waited.

"Yes?" said Adam tightly.

Pinky nodded with satisfaction. "A-hum! It seems that he and the lieutenant were out on the highway one day, and their car got into the sand or the ditch or something—and luckily for them, there was a picnic going on in the vicinity—complete with Chrysler station wagon parked close to where a bunch of girls were having a time for themselves. The sergeant made quite a story of going over, asking for help, being invited to eat with the bevy of beautiful women—and, he said, it turned out that the most beautiful of them all owned the station wagon. She agreed to push them out of their ditch or whatever, and in response to some remark the chaperone informed him that the beautiful girl was Mrs. Adam Laird." Eyes wide and watchful, Pinky waited on Adam's reaction. He sat, gravenfaced and still.

"And, of course," said Pinky laughing gaily, "the big sap blurted out that he'd met an Adam Laird with a red-head in tow, up at the Lodge on the night of the storm."

"And then what?" Adam demanded.

"Nothing, I guess. But isn't it a scream?"

Adam stood up, and put on his hat. "No," he said. "It's not funny."

Pinky stood up, too, and moved toward Adam. "Sugar?" she said throatily. "Let's go to Taos?" Her hand was on his shoulder. He was aware of her perfume, her nearness. From the dining room, the guitarist in his blue and fuschia satin played a tune of love and moonlight.

Adam's jaw glistened silvery white under the stretched brown skin as he remembered, and resented, Ann's coldness, her indifference. Ever since coming to New Mexico, she'd acted that way! While Pinky . . .

His wife had her claim upon him, of course. But if she'd be just a little more eager for his attention, he'd know more positively what he should do, be more sure.

He patted Pinky's bare shoulder. "We won't go to Taos today," he said firmly.

"Pretty please? I got a yen."

He chuckled. "Put it on ice."

"Next week? Promise?"

"I'll promise this," he told her. "I'll promise to get things straightened out with Ann, this week. Somehow I'll do that. Will that satisfy you?"

"It isn't what I wanted you to say," she told him, her eyes glinting with her disappointment.

"It'll have to do us," he assured her. And he strode away. Now Pinky was mad—and that made two of 'em!

It took him two hours to get home, a matter of five miles. He found errands to do, and then when he finally did turn the car toward the canyon he drove it slowly. Once he stopped completely to sit and admire the changing colors of sunset there between the mountain peaks. The truth was, he dreaded going home, and was postponing his arrival there. He remembered Ann's voice when he'd left. There'd be a scene awaiting him.

So braced for "yak" had he been, that the quiet way Ann sat upon the couch, and the calmness with which she greeted him, were a greater shock than any accusation could have been.

"I told you," he spoke roughly, "to lock the door when you're alone!"

"I do. I heard you down the hill, and unlocked it."

"Oh." He crossed to the chair—and asked about the ashtray.

"I broke it," said Ann. Then, still in that calm tone, she asked if he'd had dinner.

"No."

She rose. "I'll fix something for us both."

"Haven't you eaten?"

"No—I—I—" She sat down again, and smoothed her trim blue skirt. "I've been thinking, Adam," she said quietly.

And if curiosity alone were the halmark of idiocy, then it naturally would follow that the worst poker player of all would be a lady psychiatrist.

The curiosity to see what's in the other fellow's hand may be a sign of weakness in women at poker. But it is more than balanced by their uncanny ability to see what's in the other fellow's mind. And that is much more important.

Poker isn't a game. It's a matter of practical psychology. And who can figure out what a man will do even before he makes up his own mind? A woman—every time.

If wives really want to know why husbands don't like to let them into their poker games, here are the honest reasons:

1. They win too often.
2. You can't bluff them. They can see through a man's feeble pretense that he holds three aces when he actually only has a feeble pair of tens.
3. They cheat. If their instinct doesn't tell them what you have in your hand, they're always trying to peek.
4. After they win all the money, they expect the losers to walk home. They rarely offer to lend a man taxi fare.

The male prejudice against women poker players stems from one thing only—the manly need of self-defense. Let all man call me traitor for admitting it. But it's true.

No Harm In Tests Of Atomic Weapons

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

DON'T worry about those Nevada atomic bomb tests. They are not ruining your health.

While there has been speculation—and that's just what it is, speculation—about whether the blasts might harm future generations, present health and safety hazards have been reduced to a minimum.

No Serious Aftermath

Gordon M. Dunning, of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of biology and medicine, reports that after five major tests no one at the site has incurred radiation exposure that may be considered hazardous.

No one was found to be injured by shock waves, nor have there been any known cases of serious eye damage from light effects. Mr. Dunning's report appeared in a recent issue of a medical journal.

To Insure Safety

Here's what the government does to insure your safety during atomic tests:

The site of the testing area is in itself a safeguard, covering an area of some 600 square miles. In addition, an Air Force gunnery range consisting of 4,000 square miles adjoins it. There are also other wide expanses of sparsely populated land around the site.

One hundred full-time AEC employes and many additional part-time employes, throughout the country, carry out an extensive warning program before each test.

Other Precautions Taken

Just as important, they make repeated checks after a test.

After each blast, monitoring equipment at the site, in nearby communities and on mobile units measures the radioactive fallout. Planes track the clouds and plot the fall-out pattern on the ground. Ninety U. S. Weather Bureau stations and 10 AEC installations collect fall-out data.

The government, you see, keeps an accurate check on fall-out no matter where it occurs. That is one major reason why the Nevada tests have such an enviable safety record.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

J.E.: I have an over-abundance of freckles. Is it safe to use any of the different solutions to get rid of them?

Answer: Freckles are generally due to excessive pigmentation of spots in the skin.

There is not much that can be done to get rid of them, but avoiding the sunlight might be helpful.

You should consult a dermatologist (skin specialist) about the removal of freckles.

BPW Public Affairs Dinner Honors Mrs. Anna Chandler

Panel Discusses Aims Of Club Women

Mrs. Anna Chandler was guest of honor when 37 members and two guests attended an annual Public Affairs dinner of the Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club.

The dinner meeting, held Thursday evening in the Wardell Parr Home, opened with the club collect, read by Miss Elma Rains.

A short business session was conducted by Miss Clarissa Talbut. A report was given by Miss Clara Southward on a meeting of the Pickaway County Association of Women's Clubs.

Miss Emma Tennant, finance chairman, reported on the financial projects for the club year. Announcement was made of a district BPW club meeting, which is to be held Oct. 30 at Portsmouth.

Group singing was led by Miss JoAnn Brink, accompanied by Miss Wanda Maxson, a guest at the session. Miss Brink also presented a vocal solo, "Let the Sunshine In", during the evening.

Mrs. Joseph Work gave a tribute to Mrs. Anna Chandler, who has been named "Business Woman of the Week" by the local club. Mrs. Work spoke chiefly on the work Mrs. Chandler has done in the club, noting that she has served in all offices of the organization.

Among the many and varied activities mentioned by Mrs. Work which Mrs. Chandler has done in behalf of the club was the writing of a pageant.

This pageant, written on the Grenadier, Squaw and her Indian village along Scippo Creek, was presented at a national convention of the BPW clubs at Mackinac Island. The Indian leader is credited with being the first business woman of America.

Mrs. Paul Brown read a tribute in memoriam to the late Mrs. H. W. Plum, who had been a member of the club for 30 years. Miss Maxson and Mrs. Alfred Gabriel were welcomed as guests at the meeting.

Mrs. George Neff, public affairs chairman, was in charge of the program for the evening. She presented four members in a radio panel, which discussed National Business Women's Week and the part Business and Professional Women's clubs play in national business and industry.

Miss Vica Dillon served as moderator of the panel. Other panelists were: Mrs. Leland Dunkle, Mrs. Norman Anderson and Mrs. Winifred Harper. Miss Dillon spoke of the size and scope of the Business and Professional Women's Club with its 165,000 members.

In the discussion several pertinent facts were brought out about women in the business and professional world. Business absorbs the greater number of women workers in the white collar group. The next largest group is the executive group-women who are owners, managers and officials in retail shops.

In the next group are women insurance and real estate agents. There are many women in the personal service groups, such as beauty shops and laundries.

Still another group consists of women who own and manage manufacturing, transportation and utility firms. Women also are very prominent in the field of education and semi-public agencies, such as social welfare and hospitals.

The purposes of the organization were listed by the panel as follows:

To elevate the standards of women in business and the professions.

To promote the interests of business and professional women.

To bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women of the United States.

To extend opportunities to business and professional women through education along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

To accomplish these aims, various programs have been set up by the clubs including: education and vocations, health and safety, national security, public affairs, legislation, and international relations.

Bold, Brilliant Surgery Helps Ailing Hearts

Machines, Know-How Developed By Science To Fight Old Disease

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of four articles on progress being made in treatment of human heart disorders.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Sick and hungry human hearts are being transformed to health by a new era of bold, brilliant surgery.

Surgeons, dreaming of things once considered impossible, went pioneering so that today:

Several different operations can bring renewed life and strength to hearts damaged by attacks such as President Eisenhower suffered.

Heart-lung machines can put human hearts and lungs on complete vacations while they are opened and repaired.

THE BLOOD circulation of a sick child and healthy adult can be linked together during surgery.

Spare arteries taken from the dead are banked, then used to replace damaged or missing sections of living persons' arteries. Even animal arteries have been transplanted into humans.

Plastic valves have been substituted for damaged heart valves.

Most of these surgical advances have blossomed within the last 10 years.

There are two main techniques for helping some victims of bad heart attacks. In a coronary thrombosis similar to Eisenhower's, a clot blocks one or more of the branches of arteries that bring nourishment to the heart muscle. Recovery depends upon expansion and extension of other arteries, or growth of new arteries, to nourish the area deprived of blood supply.

Bad attacks leave many persons weak, short of breath, subject to pain on exertion, often true heart cripples.

One remedy is to irritate the heart, stimulating the heart muscleto create a new blood supply. Sterile talcum powder or asbestos powder is put inside the sac surrounding the heart.

Secondly, the heart hungry for blood can in effect, be given a new artery. A piece of vein is taken from an arm, then hooked in on the heart so some blood being pumped from the heart is fed into the heart muscle.

Even more dramatic perhaps are heart-lung machines, steadily pulsing blood through the human body, putting oxygen into the blood, while the human pump rests, still pulsing but "dry" of blood.

FOR 20 TO 70 minutes, heart-lung machines have worked on while surgeons plugged holes in the walls separating chambers of the heart, or fixed malformed or diseased valves.

Doctors C. Walton Lillehei, Richard Varco and Morley Cohen and associates, University of Minnesota, achieve a dry heart by connecting the bloodstream of the child patient with that of an adult volunteer—usually a parent. They have done this successfully numerous times.

Another technique used by numerous surgical teams is just cold temperature—chilling the human body 20 degrees or more. Bodily processes slow down, the brain's demand for oxygen is lowered, and the heart, its rate slowed down, can be opened for a brief time to make repairs.

And there's much experimentation now with artificial arteries made of special fabrics coated with plastic.

Prices On Coffee Expected To Fall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Coffee prices should tumble before the year's end, more than erasing the recent retail price boosts which ranged up to four cents a pound.

This was the consensus given by trade observers here, who noted a world surplus of coffee is expected and new harvests start coming to market in November.

Prices might break even before then, observers said, should coffee-growing Brazil soon go ahead with a long-rumored currency devaluation which would make her coffee cheaper in terms of U. S. dollars.

These Days

It was the Supreme Court, under the leadership of John Marshall, rather than the Constitution itself, which established the great powers of the Federal government. It was in Marbury vs. Madison that John Marshall leading the entire Court laid down a rule, not explicitly stated in the Constitution, that the Supreme Court had the power to declare an Act of Congress null and void on constitutional grounds.

Marshall did not establish a basis in law or in precedent; he rather argued that as the Constitution is the supreme law of the land, whatever is repugnant to the Constitution must be null and void and that there must be an agency of government with power so to declare.

He said: ". . .the particular phraseology of the constitution of the United States confirms and strengthens the principle, supposed to be essential to all written constitutions, that a law repugnant to he consitution is void, and that courts, as well as other departments, are bound by that instrument." From that day to this, the Court has so held and the people have upheld the Court in that interpretation of the power of the court.

Steaming Whisky Barrels Is Costly

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Steaming old barrels to get whisky is illegal, especially if you fail to pay the federal taxes on the liquid obtained.

This charge was made against 15 Nelson County men in indictments returned here recently by a federal grand jury.

The government charges the men bought more than 16,000 used whisky barrels, took them to farms in Nelson and Anderson counties and obtained a gallon of whisky from each of them by steaming.

The conspiracy deprived the government of approximately $168,000 in taxes, the indictment charged.

Bold, Brilliant Surgery Helps Ailing Hearts

Machines, Know-How Developed By Science To Fight Old Disease

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of four articles on progress being made in treatment of human heart disorders.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Sick and hungry human hearts are being transformed to health by a new era of bold, brilliant surgery.

Surgeons, dreaming of things once considered impossible, went pioneering so that today:

Several different operations can bring renewed life and strength to hearts damaged by attacks such as President Eisenhower suffered.

Heart-lung machines can put human hearts and lungs on complete vacations while they are opened and repaired.

* * *

THE BLOOD circulation of a sick child and healthy adult can be linked together during surgery.

Spare arteries taken from the dead are banked, then used to replace damaged or missing sections of living persons' arteries. Even animal arteries have been transplanted into humans.

Plastic valves have been substituted for damaged heart valves.

Most of these surgical advances have blossomed within the last 10 years.

There are two main techniques for helping some victims of bad heart attacks. In a coronary thrombosis similar to Eisenhower's, a clot blocks one or more of the branches of arteries that bring nourishment to the heart muscle. Recovery depends upon expansion and extension of other arteries, or growth of new arteries, to nourish the area deprived of blood supply.

Bad attacks leave many persons weak, short of breath, subject to pain on exertion, often true heart cripples.

One remedy is to irritate the heart, stimulating the heart muscleto create a new blood supply. Sterile talcum powder or asbestos powder is put inside the sac surrounding the heart.

Secondly, the heart, hungry for blood can in effect, be given a new artery. A piece of vein is taken from an arm, then hooked in on the heart so some blood being pumped from the heart is fed into the heart muscle.

Birth of Jesus

TIDINGS OF JOY TO ALL PEOPLE BROUGHT BY ANGEL OF GOD

Scripture—Luke 2:1-40.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN THIS lesson we begin a new series, starting with the birth of Christ, which we customarily study at Christmastime. St. Luke was not only a physician, but an historian. While Bible students have doubted the historical correctness of his account of the reasons for Joseph and Mary's journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem, later research has proved that Luke was correct.

Caesar Augustus, who decreed a general tax to be paid by each person in his own town, ruled over the whole Roman world from 30 B.C. to 14 A.D. His was a peaceful and mild rule, which aided the spread of Christianity. Quirinius was governor of Syria, and Herod ruled as king of the Jews, subject to Rome.

Joseph was of the house of David, so he must go to Bethlehem, known as The City of David, to pay it. He took Mary with him, as she was expecting her first child. This also fulfilled the ancient prophecy that the Messiah would be born in Bethlehem.

The khan at which they wished to stay was crowded with others who were in the town for the same purpose as Joseph. There was no room for them, as the "inn" was not an hotel with a landlord to look after guests, but we read that it was "an inclosed space surrounded by open recesses with paved floors, raised a little above the level of the ground which served as sleeping or resting chambers."

The stables may have been in a limestone grotto, and there Joseph and Mary spent the night. There Mary brought forth her firstborn, a son, who she had been told by an angel of God should be named Jesus. Evidently no other woman was with her because Luke tells us that she "wrapped Him in swaddling clothes and laid Him in a manger." So, in such humble circumstances the most important of all earthly births occurred.

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

"And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

"And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

The angel told the shepherds they would find the Babe "wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger."

Then suddenly the heavens were filled with a great multitude of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."

After all these centuries we are still looking and working toward that peace on earth. In God's own good time we will achieve it.

The shepherds lost no time in going to Bethlehem and finding the Baby, and they went away praising God for all they had seen and heard. Mary, however, "kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart."

"Now when the eight days were accomplished for the circumcision of the Child, His name was called Jesus, which was so named by the angel." And when the days of Mary's purification according to the Jewish law were accomplished, they took the Baby to Jerusalem to "present Him to the Lord." Also they prepared to offer a sacrifice, also according to the law, of "a pair of turtle doves or two young pigeons."

Now in Jerusalem there was a devout man named Simeon, to whom it was revealed by the Holy Ghost that he should not see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ. He came to the temple, and when the parents brought in the Child Jesus, Simeon took Him in his arms, blessing God and saying,

"Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy words: for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation."

Very briefly we must also mention the ancient prophetess Anna, who also recognized the Child as the Lord's, and she too gave thanks to the Lord and "spake of Him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."

Then Joseph and Mary, according to St. Luke, returned to Nazareth, "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom: and the grace of God was upon Him."

The shepherds lost no time in going to Bethlehem and finding the Baby, and they went away praising God for all they had seen and heard. Mary, however, "kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart."

"Now when the eight days were accomplished for the circumcision of the Child, His name was called Jesus, which was so named by the angel." And when the days of Mary's purification according to the Jewish law were accomplished, they took the Baby to Jerusalem to "present Him to the Lord." Also they prepared to offer a sacrifice, also according to the law, of "a pair of turtle doves or two young pigeons."

Now in Jerusalem there was a devout man named Simeon, to whom it was revealed by the Holy Ghost that he should not see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ. He came to the temple, and when the parents brought in the Child Jesus, Simeon took Him in his arms, blessing God and saying,

"Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy words: for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation."

Very briefly we must also mention the ancient prophetess Anna, who also recognized the Child as the Lord's, and she too gave thanks to the Lord and "spake of Him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."

Then Joseph and Mary, according to St. Luke, returned to Nazareth, "And the child grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."

Mader Accuses Council Of Stall On Vital Needs

ents of the proposed ordinance to base a sewer rental scale upon the amount of water used, a revision that would require a general rate hike. He has declared the city should be able to finance at least some of the major sewer improvements if "links" in municipal spending are plugged.

He has not as yet specified what "links" he has in mind.

Reviewing the role of the public utilities board and criticizing council's failure to take needed steps, Mader in his statement said:

"The Board of Public Utilities of the city of Circleville is a non-partisan body composed of three persons. Its members are appointed at intervals by the mayor, and the appointments approved by city council. The members as a group receive a total of $350 per year for their combined efforts.

"THE Department of Water and Sewage, with a gross annual revenue in excess of $100,000 is administered by this board, whose powers and duties are prescribed by the Ohio Revised Code of Laws.

"Circleville is no different from other growing cities insofar as the many problems which confront its 'city fathers' are concerned.

"The Department of Water and Sewage presents a fair share of the problems, and the board, with authority from council, has attempted to solve many of them.

"Engineers have been employed to study and report upon the needs of both the water utility, the sewage treatment plant, and the sewer system. The repoorts the sewer system. The reports have been received and carefully studied and evaluated by the board. Recommendations have been made to council.

"Financial advice has been obtained relative to obtaining the necessary funds for carrying in both divisions of the department.

"The fact that funds sufficient to perform the work must be borrowed means that both water and sewer service rates for users and contributors must be increased.

"CIRCLEVILLE has never had a change in its present water and sewer service rates, and the recent growth of the city has severely strained the existing facilities, in both divisions.

"The water quality is poor—red water. Storage for fire protection is inadequate—and has been for years.

"Many sections of the city lack sewer facilities. The Water Pollution Control Board of the State of Ohio, demands that the wastes, now discharged into the Scioto River, receive a higher degree of treatment.

"When a business man finds he is selling merchandise of inferior, or that he is rendering inadequate service, immediate steps are taken to remedy the situation. The board has obtained the necessary information and has presented it to council.

"City council has failed to follow any of the recommendations —made by people they have paid for advice. A year has gone by and not one problem has been solved. The reluctance of council to act will result in higher costs if and when action is ever taken.

"It has been said in council that 'The people will not stand for rate increases', but council has made no attempts to find out.

"THE BOARD has not faltered in its efforts to obtain remedies for the existing situations.

"The sewer service rate ordinance now before council is the result of over a year of study. It is not claimed that this ordinance will provide funds for all the work that needs to be done, but when the annual expense exceeds the income, prices must be increased.

"At the present time, over $10,000 in maintenance funds are needed to put the existing plant in proper condition. The operators—trained and experienced men—are receiving the lowest pay for such work in the state of Ohio; even less than truck drivers.

"By this statement the position of the board is made known. It is, therefore, incumbent upon the people of Circleville to make their desires known to members of council, either orally, or by letter, or petition."

Unusual Landing Made By Plane

GALLIPOLIS (AP) — Pilot Robert J. Poe, 33, of Charleston, W. Va., made an unusual landing yesterday. While coming into a private airport just west of nearby Cheshire, his small Aeronca plane struck power lines.

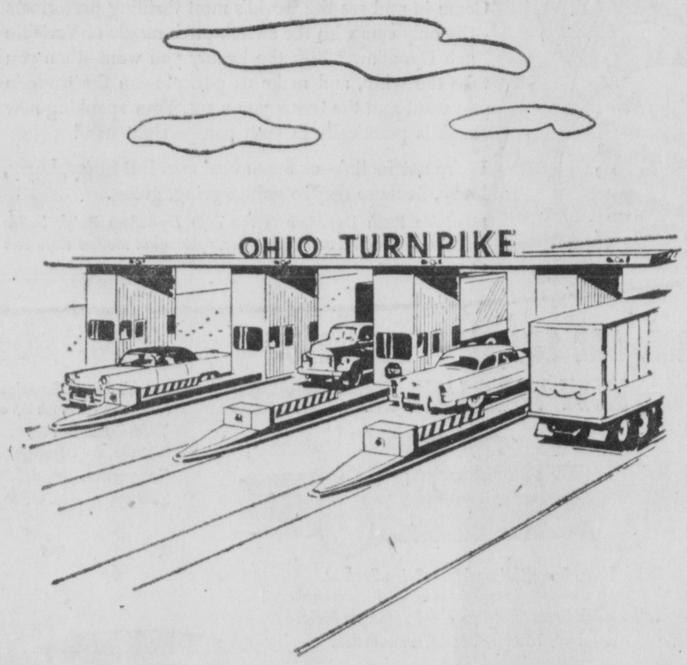
Ohio's "Highway of Tomorrow" is yours to use today



October 1 marks a significant milestone in Ohio's highway progress. The magnificent 241-mile all-concrete Ohio Turnpike opens to traffic — and right on schedule.

Despite tough engineering problems, weather delays and construction difficulties, the huge project was pushed through to meet the scheduled opening date of October 1. Only the splendid teamwork of all concerned—the Turnpike Commission, highway engineers, contractors and public officials—made it possible to meet the deadline.

The turnpike becomes America's "Main Street," sweeping across Ohio to link the Pennsylvania Turnpike with the Indiana Toll Road, which is now being built. All three turnpikes will form a continuous 757-mile divided-lane concrete highway from the Illinois-Indiana line to Philadelphia.

With its separated lanes of traffic, gentle curves, long sight distances and safe concrete pavement, the Ohio Turnpike will substantially reduce driving time and provide a safer ride. As every motorist knows from experience, concrete is the safest pavement. Its highly skid-resistant surface permits quicker stops; its light-colored surface provides better visibility at night, when the accident rate is highest.

In its role of providing technical service on concrete construction to engineers and public officials, the Portland Cement Association was privileged to render assistance on the turnpike's construction. We are proud of the part we played in helping make the Ohio Turnpike, America's new "Main Street," a safe, durable, economical road.

Crafty Casey Set To Polish Off Dem Bums

Mantle, Bauer On Bench But Stengelmen Rated Favorites By 5 To 2

BROOKLYN (AP) — Crafty old Casey Stengel led his high and mighty but crippled New York Yankees into Ebbets Field today poised and prepared to polish off the frustrated Brooklyn Dodgers in quick order.

Despite the disability of Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer, two of his leading guns, the grizzled manager was confident his American League champions would sweep the World Series in four straight or, at worst, in five games.

The odds-makers apparently agree. They made the Yankees a prohibitive 5-2 favorite to win their 17th series and sixth straight against the Dodgers.

Not since 1921 has a team, after losing the first two games, gone on to win the title. That year the New York Giants did it against the Yankees. But that was in best five-of-nine games series. Never has it been achieved since the present four-of-seven system was restored the following year.

"I know those fellows have a good club," Stengel said Thursday night, several hours after the Yankees had whipped the Dodgers 4-2. "But we got a better one.

"Playing in their park don't scare me none either. It makes no difference to my guys. If I remember right, they did all right in Brooklyn in other years."

Having turned back the winless Brooks with two left-handers in the Stadium, Stengel gave the third-game assignment to Bullet Bob Turley, the right-handed ace who never before has appeared in a series game.

Largely because they are the home team, the Dodgers have been made a slight 11-10 favorite to win their first game.

A sellout crowd of some 34,000 was expected.

Bauer's injury came during a double play in the first inning, when, trying to evade the tag at second base, he pulled a muscle in his right thigh which forced his exit two innings later.

They could understand losing to one left-hander but to be beaten by two southpaws in succession was more than they could take. It was something that hadn't happened all year.

To make matters worse, Byrne held their fearsome right-handed power to five hits as he became the first left-hander to go the distance and beat the Dodgers in more than a year.

Byrne, a 35-year-old Baltimore native who now makes his home in Wake Forest, N.C., fanned six, including the dangerous Duke Snider with a man on base in the eighth and Gil Hodges for the last out in the ninth.

The Bronx Bombers collected only eight hits off four pitchers, but they put together four singles after two were out in the big fourth to score all their runs.

Billy Loes was shelled from the mound in this big inning, going the way of Don Newcombe the day before. And as in the first game, the bullpen came through in fine style, not permitting a run after that. Don Bessent, Karl Spooner and Clem Labine allowed only one hit through the last 4 1-3 innings.

The Dodgers had gained a 1-0 advantage when Pee Wee Reese doubled and scored on a single by Duke Snider. The Dodgers' chance for a big inning fizzled when Elston Howard threw out Snider trying to stretch the hit into a double.

Loes, who had pitched a strong three innings with the help of two double plays, appeared out of the woods in the fourth when the Dodgers pulled off another twin killing following a single by Gil McDougald.

But Yogi Berra singled to left and Joe Collins walked. Howard drove in the tying run with a single and Billy Martin put the Yankees ahead 2-1 with another one-bagger that scored Collins. The bases were filled when Eddie Robinson, batting for Phil Rizzuto, was hit with a pitched ball. Byrne, a good hitting pitcher, then drove in the winning runs with a two-run single to center.

At this point Manager Alston replaced Loes, a move many second guessers among the crowd of 64,707 thought should have been made earlier in the inning.

Reese Convinced Yogi Berra Is Big Man On Yankee Club

BROOKLYN (AP)—Who's the big man on the New York Yankees?

Why, Yogi Berra, if you want to accept the opinion of Brooklyn shortstop Pee Wee Reese.

"He's the ball club," Reese said. "He makes it. He's trying to beat you in a million ways and he does it too.

"He even tries to talk you out of the ball game. I told him before Thursday's game: 'Don't open your big mouth to me, you little so-and-so. Just let me alone.'

"You get up to the plate and Yogi will say: 'Gee, it's kinda hard to see the ball today, ain't-it?' He's trying to plant that idea in your head, so maybe you'll really think it's hard to see the ball."

Hank Bauer pulled a thigh muscle in Thursday's 4-2 victory over the Dodgers and had to retire in the third inning. He was a sad ex-Marine indeed.

"It's something like Mickey Mantle's leg injury," he said. "I rested all night and applied ice packs."

Without Bauer in the lineup, the Yanks would be short two thirds of their regular outfield.

Even Irv Noren, the third member of the regulars, has a swollen and painful right knee.

Carl Erskine, who set a series record by striking out 14 Yanks in one game in the '53 series, has been ailing, which explains why he didn't get the No. 3 assignment.

"Carl is not yet 100 per cent," explained Alston. "So I know I can get only one game out of him. I can use others in the early games and have them come back later."

Most of the Brook regulars think Erskine has more stuff than any member of the pitching staff.

Alston was his usual philosophical self, calm and completely unruffled.

"I feel as good as anyone can after losing two," he said with a wry smile. "But they've still got to beat us two more. The second loss was different from the first in that I didn't think we deserved to win it the way we hit.

"You've got to give that pitcher (Tommy Byrne) credit though. He pitched a fine game."

Ohio Top 10 Ratings Due For Shakeup

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's top 10 high school football standings are due for a bit of scrambling tonight.

Third-place Mansfield and Hamilton, tied with Springfield and East Liverpool for fourth, are due to clash in Hamilton, in one of the features. Leadership of the Greater Ohio League rests on the result.

Another clash between teams in the top 10 sends East Liverpool's powerful Potters against New Philadelphia's Quakers, coached by Bill Kidd. Kidd, long known as one of the state's best defensive coaches, has constructed an offense which has counted 86 points to none for two foes, while the Potters, off to their best start in years, are on the long end of a 79-20 two-game count.

Massillon's seven - time state champs, and current leaders in the poll, tangle with Alliance's Aviators, the only team to beat 'em a year ago. Canton McKinley, which has poured over two foes to the tune of 117-0, will entertain Toledo Scott Saturday in an attempt to hold or better its second place rating.

Other top 10 games send Springfield to Portsmouth, Columbus East (8th) to Ironton, Dayton Roosevelt (9th) against Dayton Chaminade, and Toledo Devilbiss (10th) against Toledo Waite.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Football star Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch was brought back to the Los Angeles Rams at the instigation of one man—head coach Sid Gillman.

"The reason was that we lost Skeet Quinlan and we needed a good player," Gillman said.

Hirsch is expected to play Sunday against the Pittsburgh Steelers. He had retired in 1954.

Crafty Casey Set To Polish Off Dem Bums

Mantle, Bauer On Bench But Stengelmen Rated Favorites By 5 To 2

BROOKLYN (AP) — Crafty old Casey Stengel led his high and mighty but crippled New York Yankees into Ebbets Field today poised and prepared to polish off the frustrated Brooklyn Dodgers in quick order.

Despite the disability of Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer, two of his leading guns, the grizzled manager was confident his American League champions would sweep the World Series in four straight or, at worst, in five games.

The odds-makers apparently agree. They made the Yankees a prohibitive 5-2 favorite to win their 17th series and sixth straight against the Dodgers.

Not since 1921 has a team, after losing the first two games, gone on to win the title. That year the New York Giants did it against the Yankees. But that was in best five-of-nine games series. Never has it been achieved since the present four-of-seven system was restored the following year.

"I know those fellows have a good club," Stengel said Thursday night, several hours after the Yankees had whipped the Dodgers 4-2. "But we got a better one.

"Playing in their park don't scare me none either. It makes no difference to my guys. If I remember right, they did all right in Brooklyn in other years."

Having turned back the winless Brooks with two left-handers in the Stadium, Stengel gave the third-game assignment to Bullet Bob Turley, the right-handed ace who never before has appeared in a series game.

Largely because they are the home team, the Dodgers have been made a slight 11-10 favorite to win their first game.

A sellout crowd of some 34,000 was expected.

The injury to Bauer forced Stengel to make a change in his lineup today. Bob Cerv, who replaced Bauer Thursday, was the new starting center fielder with Elston Howard in Bauer's place in right and Irv Noren in left. Against a left-hander, Bill Skowron replaced Joe Collins at first. Alston also made a change, starting Sandy Amoros in left and shifting Junior Gilliam to second base supplanting Don Zimmer because the Yanks started a right-hander.

Bauer's injury came during a double play in the first inning, when, trying to evade the tag at second base, he pulled a muscle in his right thigh which forced his exit two innings later.

They could understand losing to one left-hander but to be beaten by two southpaws in succession was more than they could take. It was something that hadn't happened all year.

To make matters worse, Byrne held their fearsome right-handed power to five hits as he became the first left-hander to go the distance and beat the Dodgers in more than a year.

The Dodgers had gained a 1-0 advantage when Pee Wee Reese doubled and scored on a single by Duke Snider. The Dodgers' chance for a big inning fizzled when Elston Howard threw out Snider trying to stretch the hit into a double.

Loes, who had pitched a strong three innings with the help of two double plays, appeared out of the woods in the fourth when the Dodgers pulled off another twin killing following a single by Gil McDougald.

But Yogi Berra singled to left and Joe Collins walked. Howard drove in the tying run with a single and Billy Martin put the Yankees ahead 2-1 with another one-bagger that scored Collins. The bases were filled when Eddie Robinson, batting for Phil Rizzuto, was hit with a pitched ball. Byrne, a good hitting pitcher, then drove in the winning runs with a two-run single to center.

At this point Manager Alston replaced Loes, a move many second guessers among the crowd of 64,707 thought should have been made earlier in the inning.

NOTHING IN ITS FIELD CAN MATCH CHEVROLET FOR ACCELERATION!

It's pure dynamite, and you have to go way, way up the price ladder before you ever find its equal.

The proof was burned into the sands of Daytona Beach at the NASCAR* trials earlier this year. In acceleration tests, Chevrolet walked away from everything else in its field. Plus all the high-priced cars except one!

It's the big reason Chevrolet's been taking all comers in short track stock car events this season. Sizzling acceleration along with handling ease and cornering ability—things that mean safer, happier highway driving. Come on in and let a new Chevrolet show you what we mean.

Tigers Tussle At Wilmington In SCOL Game

Barnetson Reveals Pickaway Player's Injury Last Week

Circleville's "beefy" Tigers, as the Wilmington newspaper refers to them, will try to get back on the winning track as they sploshover to the Clinton County seat tonight for a South Central Ohio League contest.

Wilmington's description of CHS is not far from wrong. The line averages 189 pounds while the backfield evens up at 187 pounds.

On paper, CHS has been playing creditable ball. Their one big flaw is fumbling—the Tigers have bobbled the ball seven times in their first two games.

The Tigers' lone defeat so far was a 13 to 7 heart-breaker to Linden McKinley. One consolation to the loss was that CHS held the Panthers to a net gain of 12 yards in the second half of the game.

* * *

CHS's RESERVES, the Kittens, will try for the second time this week to get their season started when they travel to Washington C. H. Saturday night. Their scheduled opener against Chillicothe last Tuesday was rained out.

Saturday night's contest will be one of the first evening games ever played by a CHS reserve squad. Game time is 7:30 p. m.

Dave Smith, one of the highlights in the Pickaway football picture, has been lost to the team for the remainder of the season, coach Bill Barnetson revealed today.

On the last play of the Pickaway-Ashville game last Saturday night, the coach revealed, Smith suffered a broken leg. The disclosure was made late Thursday.

Barnetson said that Neil Eccard, who showed great promise last year, remains out of the lineup with a broken thumb. This mishap took place during pre-season practice.

Also, Barnetson said the Pirates will be without the services of Bob Brumfield, who will be out with a bad leg. Pickaway plays Stoutsville Saturday night.

Records Show A Chance For Lowly Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP)—All is not lost for the Dodgers—yet.

If a fellow wants to dig deep enough into the record books, ignoring such matters as the old-time series going best-of-nine, he can find a ray of hope for manager Walter Alston and his twice-beaten Brooklyns.

Back in 1921 the New York Giants lost the first two to the Yankees but bounced back to win the best-of-nine set 5-3. If it had been played under modern rules, best-of - seven, the Giants would have won anyhow 4-3.

Then there was 1925 when Pittsburgh, trailing 3-1 in games, rallied to sweep three straight over Washington in a best-of-seven series. That had happened only once before in 1903 when the Boston Red Sox, also trailing 3-1, beat Pittsburgh but it was a best-of-nine competition.

As recently as 1953, the last previous Dodger-Yank series, Brooklyn did manage to tie it up at 2-2 after losing the first two at Yankee Stadium. But it didn't do much good. The Yanks breezed home.

But like a fellow said Thursday as he left Yankee Stadium:

"You know, I've got a feeling I saw this whole thing before."

Willie Troy Due To Meet Speiser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tonight's television fight fare matches Chuck Speiser, latest of the Michigan State boxing products, and Willie Troy, 23-year-old light-heavyweight veteran from Washington.

Speiser, a two-time NCAA light-heavy titlist, is a former stablemate of Chuck Davey, who also attended Michigan State.

Tonight's fight, set for 10 rounds, begins at 9 p. m. EST. It will be televised nationally by NBC.

Michigan Archers Going After Deer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bow and arrow hunters are taking to the woods in Michigan this weekend in search of deer. The Conservation Department expects 35,000.

Archers killed an estimated 1,800 deer during the five-week season last year. Some 600 of these were bucks, the remainder fawns and does.

Tigers Tussle At Wilmington In SCOL Game

Barnetson Reveals Pickaway Player's Injury Last Week

Circleville's "beefy" Tigers, as the Wilmington newspaper refers to them, will try to get back on the winning track as they splosh over to the Clinton County seat tonight for a South Central Ohio League contest.

Wilmington's description of CHS is not far from wrong. The line averages 189 pounds while the backfield evens up at 187 pounds.

On paper, CHS has been playing creditable ball. Their one big flaw is fumbling—the Tigers have bobbled the ball seven times in their first two games.

The Tigers' lone defeat so far was a 13 to 7 heart-breaker to Linden McKinley. One consolation to the loss was that CHS held the Panthers to a net gain of 12 yards in the second half of the game.

CHS's RESERVES, the Kittens, will try for the second time this week to get their season started when they travel to Washington C. H. Saturday night. Their scheduled opener against Chillicothe last Tuesday was rained out.

Saturday night's contest will be one of the first evening games ever played by a CHS reserve squad. Game time is 7:30 p. m.

Dave Smith, one of the highlights in the Pickaway football picture, has been lost to the team for the remainder of the season, coach Bill Barnetson revealed today.

On the last play of the Pickaway-Ashville game last Saturday night, the coach revealed, Smith suffered a broken leg. The disclosure was made late Thursday.

Barnetson said that Neil Eccard, who showed great promise last year, remains out of the lineup with a broken thumb. This mishap took place during pre-season practice.

Also, Barnetson said the Pirates will be without the services of Bob Brumfield, who will be out with a bad leg. Pickaway plays Stoutsville Saturday night.

Records Show A Chance For Lowly Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP)—All is not lost for the Dodgers—yet.

If a fellow wants to dig deep enough into the record books, ignoring such matters as the old-time series going best-of-nine, he can find a ray of hope for manager Walter Alston and his twice-beaten Brooklyns.

Back in 1921 the New York Giants lost the first two to the Yankees but bounced back to win the best-of-nine set 5-3. If it had been played under modern rules, best-of - seven, the Giants would have won anyhow 4-3.

Then there was 1925 when Pittsburgh, trailing 3-1 in games, rallied to sweep three straight over Washington in a best-of-seven series. That had happened only once before in 1903 when the Boston Red Sox, also trailing 3-1, beat Pittsburgh but it was a best-of-nine competition.

As recently as 1953, the last previous Dodger-Yank series, Brooklyn did manage to tie it up at 2-2 after losing the first two at Yankee Stadium. But it didn't do much good. The Yanks breezed home.

But like a fellow said Thursday as he left Yankee Stadium:

"You know, I've got a feeling I saw this whole thing before."

Willie Troy Due To Meet Speiser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tonight's television fight fare matches Chuck Speiser, latest of the Michigan State boxing products, and Willie Troy, 23-year-old light-heavyweight veteran from Washington.

Speiser, a two-time NCAA light-heavy titlist, is a former stablemate of Chuck Davey, who also attended Michigan State.

Tonight's fight, set for 10 rounds, begins at 9 p. m. EST. It will be televised nationally by NBC.

Michigan Archers Going After Deer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Bow and arrow hunters are taking to the woods in Michigan this weekend in search of deer. The Conservation Department expects 35,000.

Archers killed an estimated 1,800 deer during the five-week season last year. Some 600 of these were bucks, the remainder fawns and does.
